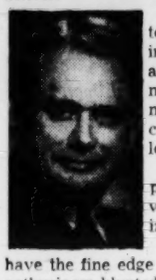
Penalizing Gifted Students

What about the "exceptional" pupil in grade school and high school?



Is he or she to be held back in his progress and development because a majority of the class is slow to learn?

Is the gifted pupil to be severely penalized?

Is he or she to have the fine edge of interest and enthusiasm blunted, perhaps even destroyed, because the entire class is chained to the progress of the least able?

This question, always important, is, after unreasonable delay, being approached with more resolve than before. There has been reluctance to face it because it is not a popular one. Most of the pupils in a class are not exceptional. The harassed mothers and fathers of children who have a difficult time making even passing grades do not look with favor on any special attention given the gifted.

As a consequence, American education consistently has attached to the minds of all its children the heavy and retarding ball and chain of the less competent. The able student has been treated with gross unfairness. We will never know how many good minds have been sidetracked into carelessness and the dangers of superficiality by this drag of the burden on the teacher. These students, able to read the lesson and carry it out, must be neglected while the teacher struggles with the inertia of those who can't.

Schools

What is needed, of course, are schools for the more able students. There is nothing undemocratic about it. To be sure, there are those who keep trying to interpret democracy as the lowest common denominator. But it isn't.

Schools for the exceptional students are the most democratic of ideas. It is a simple test of ability.

Taking them out of the classroom enables the teacher to do a better job with those remaining. A number of students, given help, move on to the exceptional classification. It is possible to give more attention to those who have greater difficulty. Often there is some reason for this inability to learn. It may be psychological or physical. Not infrequently, teachers or medical examinations reveal and correct these faults.

Schools for the exceptional pupils are an inevitable part of the answer to the present acute problem of too few teachers.

If, for example, less time is spent on educational content by reducing the number of work hours, days and years spent on it, there is less teacher demand.

Precedents

There is ample precedent for the acceleration of at least some students, if not all. Experiments by the armed forces and by some colleges were richly rewarding.

Admittedly, research on method and effects is required. Happily, some of this is being accumulated from three "workshop projects."

A plan for accelerating really gifted high school students was begun in 1951, made possible by a grant from the Fund for the Advancement of Education. A pre-induction scholarship program admits selected high school boys 16½ years or older to co-operating colleges. Most of these have just completed two years of accelerated high school work. First and second reports show them to be holding their own with their older classmates and to be experiencing no psychological troubles.

In still another approach private preparatory schools are working with selected colleges to integrate the last two years of prep school with the first two college years. It is hoped a year can be saved by eliminating duplication and the break in the middle of these four years. The results here offer promise.

A third experiment, in which a group of colleges is working with 22 high schools, prepares the more able high school graduates for direct admittance to the sophomore college year. Here, too, the first results are encouraging.

Certainly there is every reason for city and county school boards to enter this field and to provide special schools for the pupils who have exceptional ability.

A POKE AT MANAGEMENT—WEEHAWKEN, N.J., March 14—Passengers on New York Central's West Shore division mask their faces but not their feelings as they protest management's decision to abandon passenger service but not freight service on that line. The Citizens United Transit Committee, leading the protest, says, "A hog will be able to ride the West Shore—why can't we?" The committee said pig masks recalled 1946 ads in which Robert R. Young, now New York Central's board chairman, pointed out, "A hog can cross America without changing trains—but you can't."

Board Sets Up Professional Study Of Schools; Plan Hit by Solons

By BERT SPENCER

The Atlanta Board of Education Monday night set up a $15,000, long-range eight-months professional study of Atlanta schools.

A resolution calling for the study, adopted by a 5-2 vote of the board, came less than a week after Gov. Griffin's veto of an Atlanta-Fulton education study proposed by the Fulton legislative delegation.

Two Fulton legislators immediatedly criticized the study approved by the school board. The other two members of the delegation had no comment.

The board's school study will be directed by Dr. John E. Ivey Jr., director of the Southern Regional Educational Board in Atlanta. A Study Council of five prominent educators from outside the state will assist Ivey in planning the study and preparing the final report.

REVISED UPWARD

In another action Monday night, the school board revised its 1955 budget upwards by $736,463 and asked the Board of Alderman to increase the school tax rate by 1½ mills. The legislature authorized the increase during the current session.

Board member Ed. S. Cook introduced the resolution for the board's school study. He and Chairman Devereaux McClatchey said they had discussed details of the plan with Ivey and had placed men recommended by him on the study council.

A. C. (Pete) Lattimer and P. L. Bardin voted "no" and Dr. Rufus Clements voted "present" on the resolution, commenting that they had no previous notice of the proposal and could not approve it without some study.

WANT TIME

The three asked for "a week or two" to study the proposal. Cook said such a delay would throw Ivey behind on planning of the study. When the vote was taken, Lattimer charged that the study was being "railroaded just like everything else."

A preamble to the study resolution said it had become apparent that a study "of unquestionable objectivity" was needed to revise the financial structure of the city schools. The fiscal set-

Stocks Suffer Sharpest Break Since Late 1929

NEW YORK, March 14 (AP)—Prices on the New York Stock Exchange suffered their widest break since late 1929 today in a wave of selling.

Part of the losses were recovered before the trading ended, but the closing figure wiped out more than $3,000,000,000 of the market value of all listed issues.

That brought the loss since last Monday to more than $10,000,000,000.

At the lowest point today, the Dow-Jones industrial average was down 13.58 points, the widest break since Nov. 11, 1929, when the average dropped 16.14 points.

Record Year Profits Made By Lockheed

Lockheed Aircraft Corp. increased its earnings 45 per cent last year to $22,446,000, highest in company history, Vice President Dan Haughton reported in Marietta Monday.

Georgia Division lauded by Gross. Page 23.

The corporation's Georgia Division, organized just four years ago, set a new sales record of $224,682,000 in 1954, he added.

Lockheed's total sales volume last year was $732,872,000, second only to 1953 and up 209 per cent over 1951.

It included airplanes, missiles, parts and services.

The company's 1954 earnings of $7.94 a share compared with $5.51 a share on earnings of $15,462,000 in 1953.

President Robert Gross said the Georgia Division started 1955 with an order backlog of $372,245,000. The corporation's total backlog, he said, stood at $1,190,525,000.

In his annual report to stockholders, Gross said dividend payments of $2.60 a share were the highest in company history—totaling $7,222,000 from last year's earnings, against $4,851,000 in the previous year. The Lockheed president credited consistent improvements in production performances with contributing to 1954's top-level sales and earnings results.

Griffin Asks Yankee Industrial Invasion

Special to The Constitution

CHICAGO, March 14—Gov. Marvin Griffin Monday invited a Yankee invasion of Georgia—an industrial invasion.

Georgia's chief executive, addressing nearly 100 top Midwest industrialists at a luncheon here, urged them to "come down and see for yourselves" what a warm welcome the Peach State can give them.

He received a standing welcome before going into his sales talk, after he was introduced by Gen. Robert E. Wood, retired board chairman of Sears, Roebuck and Co.

Natural resources, climate, an abundance of labor, transportation and low building costs offer an inducement for establishing new industries in Georgia, Griffin said.

"The state does not offer 'cheap labor' as a lure," he added. "On the other hand, those workers available for jobs are willing and eager to offer an honest day's work for an honest day's pay.

"Georgia is now a cosmopolitan state," he said. "She has emerged from provincialism and is taking her well-deserved position of leadership."

Griffin was accompanied to Chicago by a group of leaders in Georgia business and industry. The meeting was planned by the Georgia Chamber of Commerce.

2 Phone Cables Cut Here As Vandalism Marks 1st Day of 9-State Walkout

Police Find Headquarters Line Damage

A daring attempt to knock out police communications was made Monday during widespread vandalism that marked the first day of a strike involving 50,000 Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. employes.

An attempt to cut the main cable in the driveway at police headquarters was discovered at 7:30 p.m.

Station Capt. E. O. Mullen immediately posted guards over cables at police headquarters and Grady Hospital.

MAJOR DAMAGE

No serious damage resulted from the attempt at police headquarters, but telephone company spokesmen said major damage resulted at three other places.

A 1,200-pair line was cut through on Forsyth street, near Alabama street, SW, disrupting six trunk lines leading to the Georgia Power Co. switchboard and knocking out all except five individual telephones in the power company building.

A smaller cable was cut at 160 Peachtree St., NE, company officials said, and several pay station receivers were ripped from telephones at Sears, Roebuck & Co. on Ponce de Leon avenue, NE.

BLAME NOT FIXED

Neither the telephone company nor police would say whether they believed the lines were cut by strikers or sympathizers.

Meanwhile, union officials predicted a long strike as the Communications Workers of America (CIO) and company officials continued to negotiate.

Both the union and Southern Bell have indicated they will stand

Democrat Fight Stalls Revelations on Yalta

By JAMES RESTON

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, March 14—A domestic political row with important international implications developed today over the publication of the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conversations at the 1945 Yalta conference.

The major moves were as follows:

1. The State Departmena announced that it would not publish the transcript of the conversations because they had a very definite bearing on "national security and our relations with other powers."

2. At the same time, however, State Department spokesman Henry Suydam said the department was sending 24 transcripts of the conversation to political leaders and committee chairmen on Capitol Hill this afternoon.

3. This immediately brought a demand from prominent Democrats that the administration either take full responsibility for publishing the documents or maintain secrecy about them.

4. Notified of this, Assistant Secretary of State Thurston B. Morton held up delivery pending further discussion of the problem.

If U.S. security and good relations with other countries would

Big Tax Fight Near Climax; Cut in Doubt

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, March 14—The Senate's great tax fight approached its climactic phase tonight with the issue still in doubt.

The Democrats privately were conceding the probability of narrow defeat in their efforts to cut the individual income tax and to repeal tax reductions granted to business and stockholders by a Republican Congress last year.

The Republicans both publicly and privately were predicting a victory for the Eisenhower administration. However, they were made cautious in part by the very gloominess of Democratic forecasts.

A synthesis of the views of leaders on both sides was that the outcome probably will be decided by as few as two votes.

The President, through Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey, was standing adamantly against the Democratic plan.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas expects a decisive ballot by tomorrow afternoon.

As the debate went on all day and into the early evening, the lines of battle swayed inconclusively.

The Democrats were concentrating their efforts on an attempt to show that the administration is seeking to deny tax relief to the needy and continue "favoritism" to the well-to-do.

Sen. Johnson declared Humphrey was setting out to be "the best big business secretary since Andrew Mellon."

Cashier Who Held Checks To Favor Patrons Ran Up $535,000 Shortage

WHITESVILLE, Ky., March 14 (AP)—A federal bank liquidator, investigating the collapse of a small town bank, disclosed today that it obligingly cashed more than 2,000 worthless checks.

The checks, varying in size from $1 to $7,000, caused a shortage of $535,000.

This was more than half the deposits in the Bank of Whitesville, which closed last September. The deposits totaled $929,625.

How were the customers, over a period of four years, able to get money on so many checks when they didn't have sufficient funds on deposit?

Bernard Ware Barrett, the 51-year-old cashier, took full blame.

"I had a habit of indulging our customers," he explained. "I thought they (the checks) would be made good, but they weren't."

Barrett added he didn't realize that the checks he was holding had piled up to such a fantastic sum. Altogether, 135 accounts were overdrawn.

One customer overdrew his account by $168,701. Another took out $159,613 which he didn't have on deposit.

Barrett is charged with misapplying bank funds and with making false entries, but he has been declared temporarily unfit mentally to stand trial. He said he did not profit from indulging his patrons so generously.

The more than 2,000 worthless checks were reported by John Slocum, a liquidator for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, as he and state and private banking officials strove to untangle the giant overdraft.

What about the persons who wrote the checks in this community of 750 residents?

Criminal indictments have been returned and civil suits have been filed against two customers most deeply involved.

L. E. Owen, an oil operator, is charged with writing 1,185 checks which left him with an overdraft of $168,701.

J. D. Logsdon, a lumberman and home builder, is accused of creating two overdrafts—one involving 577 checks and $159,613 against his business and one involving 565 checks and $74,70[illegible] against himself. Slocum, said numerous smaller delinquents were voluntarily settling their shortages. He said the courts will get the cases of others who decline to cooperate.

Most of the Owen and Logsdon checks were made out to pay business bills.

Logsdon testified at a recent examining trial he had only a fifth-grade education and was not aware of any indebtedness.

Cash Stock Sales Would Drop Living Level, Probers Told Amid Bickering

By BURTON CRANE
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, March 14—Strong support for the Fulbright committee's "friendly study" of the stock market came today from the Federal Reserve Board.

William McChesney Martin Jr., chairman of the board, said that that body, like the committee, had become concerned by the atmosphere of the market and had wanted to call attention to it without putting an undue crimp in it.

The action it took in January was to raise margin requirements for carrying stocks—that is, to cut the use of credit from 50 to 40 per cent in stock deals.

CUT EXCESSIVE CREDIT

"Our law says to prevent the excessive use of credit," said Martin, "and that seemed the right psychological juncture."

The committee has been concerned about the development of over-speculation, the means to control it, and with "too great preoccupation with capital gains."

Martin fought off every suggestion that the stock market should be required to operate without credit. He asserted that, over a period in which credit for all purposes had expanded about $200,000,000,000, that for carrying securities had advanced only about $2,000,000,000.

"The stock market," he said, "should not be denied access to credit, unless you want to promote a lower standard of living."

He admitted however, that raising margins would have been "a wiser policy" in 1929.

POLICIES ATTACKED

Despite his welcome backing for the work of the committee, Martin found himself under attack for Federal Reserve Board credit policies in 1953.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), chairman, and Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) declared that these had been inconsistent.

Both pointed out that the Treasury and Federal Reserve had tightened money rates at the same time that they lowered stock market margin requirements.

There was another battle during the day between Fulbright and the former chairman, Sen. Capehart (R-Ind). Capehart attempted to gain acceptance for a contention that the committee from the start had been trying to show that stocks were too high. In the course of this debate he charged the committee's investigation—for which he voted—with bringing about a $7,000,000,000 decline in stock prices last week.

Associated Press Wirephoto

DEFENDS CREDIT
Wm. McC. Martin Jr.

PROVES HIS POINT

To prove his point he read the first page of the statement with which Fulbright opened the hearing.

"Read the second page," said Fulbright.

Capehart did so and found himself reciting, "The basic issue before this committee is not whether stock prices are too high, whether they can safely go higher or whether they can be driven down." Shortly thereafter he left the committe table.

Martin, opening his appearance, said:

"In my judgment, a properly functioning stock market is important to the attainment of a high standard of living and steady growth of employment opportunities for all the people. We could not today have our system of mass production and distribution if it were not possible for corporate enterprises to assemble through the securities markets varying amounts of individual savings into large aggregates of capital."

Public Park Segregation Ruled Out by U.S. Court

RICHMOND, Va., March 14 (AP)—The 4th U.S. Circuit Court today threw out the "separate but equal" segregation principle as applied to public parks and playgrounds.

Such theories, the appeals court said in an opinion, were "swept away" by the Supreme Court's decision of last May 17 to ban racial segregation in the public schools.

The court's action reversed a Baltimore Federal District Court decision which held that racial segregation — provided substantially equal facilities are provided separatly—does not violate the 14th Amendment.

"It is now obvious, however, that segregation cannot be justified merely because the tangible facilities furnished to one race are equal to those furnished to the other," said the circuit court in an opinion handed down in cases heard jointly against the City of Baltimore and the State of Maryland.

The district court had been asked on May 16, 1952, to give injunctive relief to Robert M. Dawson Jr. and Milton Lonesome and others similarly situated, against enforcement of racial segregation at public beaches and bath houses operated by the city and state at Fort Smallwood Park near Baltimore.

The circuit court opinion said, "It is obvious that racial segregation in recreation activities can no longer be sustained as a proper exercise of the police power of the state; for if that power cannot be invoked to sustain racial segregation in the schools, where attendance is compulsory, and racial friction may be apprehended from the enforced comingling of the races, it cannot be sustained with respect to public beach and bathhouse facilities, the use of which is entirely optional."

Federal Judge Rozel C. Thomsen issued the ruling upholding separate but equal public swimming facilities in Maryland on July 27 of last year.

He held that the Supreme Court opniion that separate but equal public schools are unconstitutional does not apply to state and municipal recreation facilities.

Passenger Falls From Navy Jet In Night Storm

KINGSTREE, S.C., March 14 (AP)—A passenger fell out of a Navy jet plane last night in a violent wind, hail and thunderstorm near here.

The pilot reported to the Charleston Air Force Base he lost his canopy and passenger about seven miles south of Kingstree. The plane was flying from Sanford, Fla., to Norfolk, Va.

The base identified the missing man as 1st Lt. Robert Workman and the surviving pilot as Lt. Col. Wade K. Forman. Home addresses and squadrons were not available.

Authorities said the passenger's parachute may have opened automatically.

Clearing weather today permitted an air and ground search.

Red Gunman In British Embassy Raid

MOSCOW, March 14 (AP) — A young Russian shot his way past Soviet guards to enter the British embassy here last night.

He wounded one Russian militiaman and forced his way to the private apartment of Ambassador Sir William Hayter, which was unoccupied, before he was disarmed by members of the British embassy staff.

Authorities said the well-dressed young man who appeared to be about 25 years old, was believed to have been mentally unbalanced.

He approached the embassy and was challenged by Soviet guards when he started to enter the courtyard. The young man whipped out a revolver, authorities said, and shot and wounded one of the two guards.

He then sprinted into the embassy building, raced past surprised British officials, and ran up the stairs to Hayter's second-floor apartment.

Two British officials caught and disarmed him. They said he babbled incoherently when they overpowered him.

Molotov Rebuffed Private Talk, Churchill Reveals

By DREW MIDDLETON
New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

LONDON, March 14—Negotiations between Britain and the Soviet Union for an informal two-power meeting broke down last summer over Russia's insistence that a four-party conference be held at the same time.

Sir Winston Churchill, who initiated the negotiations, turned this hitherto secret page of diplomatic history for the House of Commons today. President Eisenhower was informed of his initiative, he said.

Britain still earnestly desires a meeting with Russia after ratification of the Paris treaties to rearm West Germany, the Prime Minister declared.

But he warned his countrymen against approaching such a conference hastily or over-optimistically, and he pleaded with them to avoid criticism of the United States that might hamper President Eisenhower's freedom of movement.

OPPOSITION LOSES

Sir Winston's detailed report on the realities of international politics and Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden's brusque rebuttal of Socialist arguments sufficed to defeat an opposition motion of censure by 298 votes to 268.

A government amendment to censure the motion was then carried, 299 to 266.

The Socialist censure motion asked an approach to the Soviet Union and the United States immediately and to arrange a meeting between the heads of government to ease tension and prepare for disarmament.

The amendment to the motion moved today by the Prime Minister welcomed government efforts toward a relaxation of tension and disarmament but declared a high level meeting must wait until the Paris treaties are ratified by all the nations concerned.

THE DIFFERENCE

The conflict between these two points of view—between immediacy and caution—is the fundamental difference between the two parties in their approach to the objective, generally accepted in Parliament and heartily endorsed in the nation, of a meeting with the Soviet Union.

Although the Socialist Party is split over Aneurin Bevan, leader of its left wing, it is united on the need for an immediate meeting. This unity evoked from the Prime Minister one of the most revealing of all his speeches since the Conservative government took power.

Undeterred after two earlier attempts to set up a meeting with the Soviet Union had been opposed by Britain's allies, Sir Winston in the first week of July 1954, sent a personal telegram to Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and informed President Eisenhower of it.

SOUNDED MOLOTOV

This message sounded out Molotov on the Russian attitude to a meeting of Britain, the United States and Russia. Sir Winston asked what the Russians thought of a "friendly" meeting with no agenda and no objective save that of living "side by side in growing confidence, easement and prosperity."

Molotov responded with a "very friendly and encouraging reply" but both parties delayed action until the end of the Geneva conference. On July 26 Sir Winston took a second step.

This was a proposal to Molotov suggesting a meeting at the end of August or in the first half of September "at some halfway house" such as Stockholm, Bern or Vienna.

But in the interval the Soviet Union had proposed a formal conference of European states and the United States to discuss collective security in Europe. This superseded for the moment the Prime Minister's plan for a small meeting.

Plumbing Code Asked By Inspector

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Need for a regional plumbing code to standardize requirements throughout the South is stressed by J. H. Schofield, city plumbing inspector.

Schofield said in an interview he and others in the Atlanta area already have been working on a uniform code to simplify and standardize requirements so that all plumbers would be qualified to do work in all governmental subdivisions. He, however, expressed disappointment that more progress has not been made over the years.

Inspired by an announcement that a nationwide plumbing code has been given sanction by leading national organizations, Schofield and Ben Seckinger, a member of the Atlanta citizens advisory committee on plumbing have intensified their efforts at standardization.

EXPRESSES DOUBT

Schofield, however, expressed doubt that any ironbound code would meet requirements of the entire nation because of differentials in temperature, elevation and other aspects. He believes regional codes are the answer.

Schofield said Fulton and DeKalb counties, East Point, College Park and Hapeville now accept work done under the Atlanta code, which was adopted in 1949 and which has been revised to some extent since. He emphasized the importance of having a uniform code at least for the Atlanta area. (At present there are some differences in practically every individual subdivision's requirement.)

SOUTHERN CODE

"We really should have a regional code applicable to the South," Schofield said. "If we cannot have that, the next preference would be a standard code for Georgia, and if we could not get that, we perhaps could get one for the Atlanta area. We have been interested in attempting to make standard and uniform requirements for years, but for some reason we have not been successful."

Schofield expressed gratification that progress has been reported on a proposed national code. He said he will seek copies of it and that available suggestions will be incorporated in any new code proposed for Atlanta.

Dixie Welfare Parley Here Sept. 28-30

A regional meeting of the American Public Welfare Assn. is scheduled to be held in Atlanta Sept. 28-30 at the Biltmore Hotel.

Up to 1,000 welfare workers from the federal, state and local level in the Southeast are expected to attend the three-day conference.

Wellborn R. Ellis, Fulton County welfare administrator and chairman of the organization's national committee on the aging, said Phil Cawthon, deputy director of the State Department of Public Welfare, will serve as conference chairman.

During the meeting, officials will discuss various phases of public welfare administration. Twenty-eight sectional meetings will be held during the conference to discuss various welfare problems, Ellis said.

Charles L. Schottland, commissioner of social security for the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare will be one of the principal speakers for the meeting. Ellis said Schottland is expected to discuss future trends in social security legislation.

U.S. Cannot Afford Any More Retreats

It would be completely foolhardy for the American people not to grasp the seriousness of the situation in the Far East. The Formosa problem is an explosive that could ignite a general Asiatic war at any time.

It is obvious from reading Mr. Dulles' speech and all the dispatches from Washington right now that the United States is desperately seeking a way out.

It is equally obvious that the administration has reached a decision that there must be no further retreats. The attitude of Red China has made that decision for Washington. Any further retreats would destroy U.S. prestige and contribute to a rapid deterioration of all safeguards against Communist aggression.

The Chinese Reds continue their buildup for attacks on the islands of Quemoy and Matsu, preliminary to an assault on Formosa itself. As Mr. Dulles said, the Reds are determined, apparently, to carry these through. To think they are bluffing is to disregard all the evidence at hand.

Exactly eight years ago, March 13, 1947, President Harry Truman went before a joint session of Congress to enunciate the famous Truman doctrine that halted the Russians in Greece, Turkey and Iran. He said to the Reds: "You shall go no further." That speech initiated the policy of containment that held Communist aggression in check in that area.

"If we falter in our leadership," Mr. Truman said, "we may endanger the peace of the world—and we shall surely endanger the welfare of our own nation."

This policy of firmness, implemented with action, saved Greece and the Middle East from communism.

Mr. Dulles told the nation something of the same thing last week. He also told the Communists that a line is being drawn in Asia. He was not specific. He did not draw the line. The Chinese Reds apparently believe that we will back down from doing so.

Information from Washington indicates the secretary of state was not bluffing. The expected attacks on Quemoy and Matsu will be resisted if they materialize.

President Eisenhower should spell out in no uncertain terms the conditions under which the United States will fight. He should go before the American people and the world and tell the Communists as did Truman in 1947: "You shall go no further."

Such action might prevent igniting the explosive that lies in the Formosa Straits.

1940 'Dream Highway' Becomes a Nightmare

The man who travels regularly on that thoroughfare which, for lack of a better name, is called the Marietta four-lane highway has long recognized the road as obsolete, overloaded and deadly dangerous.

The record on all three counts speaks for itself.

Now comes a highway engineer to say with authority what the man-on-the-road long has recognized.

B. P. McWhorter, division engineer for the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, this week said in effect that the "dream highway" of the 1940s has become a nightmare.

Planned, surveyed and graded in the 1930s, the four-lane section from the river to Marietta might have been adequate for the traffic of that era. It served well up to 1945.

We weren't making those trips that weren't necessary in those days, you will remember. The cars weren't as new or as powerful. During the war we couldn't be sure how long we were going to have to make them last. So the Marietta four-lane handled the Bell Bomber traffic in adequate fashion.

But there are five cars in use today for every three in 1945. The horsepower has gone up. Tourist travel has increased. Lockheed has come along to employ about 15,000 people. The load has far outgrown the road.

Engineer McWhorther says the only thing to do is to build another road at another location. That is, for through traffic.

The crisis calls for initiative, plans, time and money.

Meanwhile, pushing to completion a four-lane highway to Marietta from the river up the old streetcar right-of-way would take some of the load off the "new four-lane," old before its time.

Pending the completion of auxiliary roads and a new one, more adequate patrol of the Marietta four-lane would reduce the appalling toll from accidents.

Atlanta police ride herd constantly on the city side of the river bridge. One seldom sees a patrol car on the Cobb County side. It is over there that the speed mounts and the wrecks pile up.

Five Operas This Year Prove Cultural Growth

Atlanta's 1955 opera season promises to be one of the most brilliant on record. Beginning April 27 with a performance of Carmen, the Met's finest stars will present five of the best-loved classics.

The addition of the fifth opera this year is the result of the splendid response to the annual series. When the Music Festival Association and the Junior League undertook sponsorship of the Met's visits nine years ago, three operas were presented. For the past seven seasons, four productions were offered.

Because of the financial responsibility involved, the sponsors have had to depend largely on season ticket buyers. As popularity increased, however, the demand for single tickets has grown—a demand that could not be met. With the addition of the fifth opera, however, about 7,000 single-performance tickets will be made available. Season tickets will include only four performances, making it possible to satisfy more of the single-performance orders.

The sponsors are to be congratulated for their effort to solve a difficult problem. While they must of necessity depend upon regular patrons to keep their operations solvent, this attempt to make it possible for more people to enjoy fine music is commendable and is appreciated.

Success of the opera in Atlanta has been phenomenal and testifies to the community's cultural growth. The sponsoring organizations and music lovers who have been willing to foot the bill deserve our heartiest thanks.

Gov. Griffin's Words Are Backed With Facts

As Gov. Marvin Griffin went before Midwestern industrialists and business men yesterday to tell them about Georgia, the U.S. Department of Commerce released a report proving what he said.

The governor told of Georgia's growth in every field and the progress being made in overcoming our problems. He cited the benefits to the entire nation of decentralization of industry—the growing markets, increased income and development of resources that have given a big spur to the national economy.

He mentioned the growth of the state port at Savannah—the subject of the Department of Commerce release.

Indications are, the report states, that Georgia will lead the entire nation in rate of increase in exports through its ports when final figures for 1954 are compiled. Total exports through the ports at Savannah and Brunswick hit a peak of $69,700,000 in the first 11 months of the year. Total imports reached a total of $53,400,000.

The state has a right to be proud of these figures. The 117.8 per cent rise in value of exports was unequalled in any of the other 44 customs districts in the United States.

The rise, of course, largely reflects development of the splendid port at Savannah. The latter is a triumph of foresight and imagination. Out of such foresight comes progress.

Development of trade is a vital ingredient in the continued prosperity of the Southeast. As the industrial plant increases, products of our fields and factories will find their way into world markets in exchange for food and raw materials. Georgia's ports have a historic role to play in the country's future.

Barbarism Can Be Made Slightly More Refined

Mississippi has bought a gas chamber for the execution of criminals. In doing so she became the eighth state to join the group which has forsaken hanging or electrocution for death by gas.

The gas method is supposed to be more humane. The condemned is placed in a chair in an airtight chamber. Under the chair is a container of cyanide pellets. Controls outside the chamber release the pellets into sulphuric acid. Soothing fumes swiftly rise and cause death in a matter of seconds.

Other states using this method are Colorado, Nevada, Arizona, California, Oregon, Wyoming and Missouri. Maryland is supposed to be toying with the idea. Of all the ways the state can kill a man, this is supposed to be the kindest.

Georgia might investigate the system in the name of progress. After all, if the General Assembly continues to insist that we execute juveniles, we might as well do it as painlessly as possible.

What Do Christians Really Believe In?

"Be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you" (I Peter 3:15).

In The New York Times there was recently a review of a sermon delivered by Dr. John Sutherland Bonnell, distinguished pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church of New York.

In the sermon the minister spoke of the lack of definite religious convictions on the part of many of those who had been asked to contribute to Edward R. Murrow's book titled "This I Believe." Apparently many contributors, most of them "big name" leaders in American life, lived according to few basic religious principles or were unable to express their religious affirmations. Of course, many of the contributors were deeply religious men who interpreted life by spiritual convictions.

Dr. Bonnell expressed the concern that many Christians do not know what they believe and are, therefore, unable to interpret Christianity to other people. He urged his parishioners to devote some time during the Lenten period to the formulation in words and on paper of their religious faith, and then to send their affirmations of faith to him.

That is a wonderful idea, and I should be gratified if some of my readers would do the same. What do you believe about God, and why? What does Christ mean to you personally and what is the meaning of His life to mankind? What are your convictions about the Holy Spirit, prayer, salvation and the church? What does life mean to you, and what is the meaning of a Christian's death?

Such a statement ought to be formed in a man's own words and expressing in his own thoughts the faith which determines his life. We have the gospels according to Matthew, Mark Luke and John. We know the gospel according to St. Paul. We can read of the faith in Christ as expressed in the Epistle to the Hebrews. We know the glowing hope of the Book of Revelation.

And down through the years there have been the testimonies of saints and prophets, of laymen and the clergy, and such group expressions as are found in the creeds and confessions of different church bodies.

But more important than all of them for you and your household is the Gospel according to You. It is Your Gospel and not St. Paul's which will finally determine the steps your feet will take, the hope your heart will treasure, the meaning and measure of your days on earth.

Can you frame in words such a statement? If you find this difficult or impossible, then, perhaps you ought to turn again to the Bible for light and guidance, and turn to prayer for direction and purpose, and turn to your spiritual advisers and counsellors for their aid and stimulation.

Head Tax on School Children Advocated As Workable Way of Meeting Fund Crisis

Atlanta—Having no knowledge of the law concerning public schools, I would like to make a suggestion that seems workable to me.

Instead of adding taxes for sufficient funds to meet the financial crisis now existing in the schools, could a fee of $1 per child be collected at entrance to school in September and the second term after Christmas? This would supply money for athletics, lunches, janitors, band and stadium upkeep and leave the other funds for teachers' salaries.

This would work no hardship on anyone for probably every child spends many times that much on movies or sports.

Column of Poetry Would Prove Popular

Rome — The discussion about why poetry seems to be unpopular with the public appearing in The Constitution recently seems to me to be one-sided and inconclusive. In the first place, I see no reason to believe that poetry is unpopular with the people. Prior and after 1910, Frank L. Stanton wrote for The Constitution his daily column, "Jest from Georgia," which was read with pleasure by everyone.

About that time, a Chicago newspaper published verses under the caption: "Poems You Ought to Know." These were afterward printed in an attractive book form. The paper explained its action by this quotation from Prof. Charles Eliot Norton: "Whatever your occupation may be, and however crowded your hours with affairs, do not fail to secure a few minutes every day for refreshment of your inner life with a bit of poetry."

If the newspapers will share some of the space given to columns on dogs, rock gardens, bridge, etc. with poetry, they will find that the public will read it with general and grateful appreciation.

Chinese 'Friendship' Is Hardly Friendly

Atlanta — Armand May, who seems to express himself on any and all subjects, makes the startling statement:

"We have never had to fight the Chinese people, that they have been our friends and we have been their friends." This will certainly be a surprise to the parents and wives of 135,000 dead and wounded American boys during the Korean War, to say nothing of the thousands of prisoners that were tortured in every way that so-called humans could think of.

If that is the way our Chinese friends treat us, then for heavens' sakes, save us from our friends.

College Education Pays Off In Dollars as Well as Sense

In The Christian Science Monitor

With only 6 per cent of the world's land and 7 per cent of its population the United States publishes 27 per cent of the world's newspapers, owns 31 per cent of all radio and television sets, produces 40 per cent of all electric power, uses 58 per cent of the world's telephones, and drives 76 per cent of its automobiles.

University placement directors, business, industry and education leaders today point to just such statistics in stressing the need for trained intelligence in our complex but resourceful and inventive society.

College and high school seniors who will graduate in June are also looking to such signs of the times for an answer to the question: "Just how valuable is a college education?"

As the need for more college trained personnel has grown in recent years, educators and employers have become convinced that a college or university education is invaluable.

Dr. Frank Endicott, Director of Placement at Northwestern University, has just completed his annual survey of business and industry and says employers plan to hire more college and university graduates in 1955 than in 1954 and pay higher salaries. He said the average starting wage in all fields will be $341 a month.

Taken in the light of remarks made last spring by James P. Mitchell, Secretary of Labor, to the effect that America holds opportunities which would be more than twice the number of college graduates, Dr. Endicott's findings should gladden the outlook of graduating college seniors and encourage high school graduates to continue their education.

As for the economic value of a college education, surveys have scanned that factor from a number of standpoints.

The Alfred Politz research organization in July, 1952, reported that the average college graduate earns $45,000 more over the normal working years than does the high school graduate who does not continue his school work. And he makes all of $79,000 more in the same time, than the grade school graduate. Only 26 per cent of grade school graduates earn more than $4,000 a year.

Of high schoolers, the report continues, 46 per cent scale that hurdle ($4,000 annually) while 71 per cent of college graduates do.

The recent research project of the United States Chamber of Commerce makes it even clearer that college degrees pay off in dollars and cents.

Surveying men over 25 in two different salary brackets the Chamber found that 52 per cent of those making $10,000 or more a year had gone to college. At the other extreme, of those making less than $3,000 a year, only 8 per cent were college men.

Thus, there is every indication that in 1955 as in all recent years the scramble to hire college graduates will be as urgent as ever.

Further evidence of this attitude on the part of employers is found in recent announcements by large corporations of their intention to contribute large sums of money to American schools.

Educators note that among other "profits" accumulated by the college student is an enlarged range of thinking that comes from the enlarged range of interests offered by the college or university.

Ike's Choice---Nixon For Running Mate

WASHINGTON—Vice President Richard M. Nixon will, for certain, be renominated if President Eisenhower runs again in 1956—and at this stage 99 per cent of the Republican leaders are convinced that the President will do so.

It can be stated authoritatively that Nixon is the President's personal and only choice as a 1956 running mate.

If his frequent and strong public praise of the vice president tends to commit him so fully to the vice president that he would have no room to withdraw his support from him a year hence, even if he wanted to, that is all right with Eisenhower. If the President runs again, he doesn't want freedom to change his running mate. His mind is already made up on that point and these are his reasons:

1. Nixon has successfully discharged larger responsibilities than any vice president in modern times. No vice president has ever enjoyed such full insight and such first-hand participation in the high policy formulation of the government as Nixon. When Truman was vice president, he was a stranger to the White House and was completely insulated and isolated from what was going on. Nixon is better equipped for his potential responsibilities than any predecessor.

2. Nixon is totally committed to the policies and purposes of the Eisenhower administration. If he is ever called on to carry them out on his own, his succession would assure full continuity of the Eisenhower domestic and foreign policy views.

3. Nixon has grown measurably on the job. He has demonstrated grasp of the big issues, has proved himself an incomparably effective ambassador in his trips to delicate parts of the world — Asia and South America — and has won the intellectual and personal respect of the cabinet. He participates regularly in the cabinet and security council meetings and the weekly White House conferences of the legislative leaders.

Eisenhower is not impressed by the Democratic hostility to his vice president. As the White House sees it, the Democrats, not feeling free to attack the President, are taking it out on Nixon and they are eager to cut him down because he is a formidable campaigner.

As to the argument that Nixon would be a liablity among independents to an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket, no Republican expects Nixon to win the election for Eisenhower; they know Eisenhower will take care of that and they figure that any weakness Nixon might have with independents will be made up by his strength with the Republican organization.

In any event this much can now be said: Republicans of all stripes can stop hunting for a successor to Nixon if they want Dwight D. Eisenhower to run. If there is to be an Eisenhower ticket, it will be an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

Odds Are Against '56 GOP Victory

WASHINGTON—Certain current events recall an incident that occurred in the National Press Club on Nov. 1, 1948, when this reporter was carefully writing out his forecast on the forthcoming presidential election to be submitted in the annual club pool.

He was, it is needless to say, predicting the election of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York because, after all, everybody from Dr. Gallup on down knew that was a sure thing. All that remained was the casting and counting of the votes.

Which is by way of submitting a minority report on the 1956 presidential election to the effect that it is by no means sure that President Eisenhower would be re-elected if he decides to run again. There are those — and some with records for political astuteness — who hold this view.

One hesitates to utter such an unorthodox thought in the hearing of Republican friends, so one doesn't — just puts it down on paper like this at a safe distance. Republicans are sure that the President would win again. Their only worry is that he may not run.

We have just had additional evidence of how frantic they are that he may not run in the beautiful show of righteous fury into which they got themselves worked up when National Democratic Chairman Paul Butler suggested that the President might not run again on account of Mrs. Eisenhower's health.

The way the Republican gentlemen pounced on Chairman Butler's remark and whipped it around showed how tragic a fate they would consider it for the Republican Party if the President didn't run again. Mr. Butler's indiscretion likewise illustrates the worry among Democrats that the President will run again.

The belief that President Eisenhower could win re-election is based chiefly on the assumption that he would continue to remain apart from and above his party, a popular, nonpartisan figure, and that people would vote for him independently of his party. The Republican Party is a minority party once again, and nobody knows that better than Republicans. It was proved for all to see in November's congressional election which, when analyzed, shows the party in really bad shape as a party.

To the extent that the President becomes merged with his party and is held responsible for what it does, to that extent he will be weakened with the people. That may not happen before the 1956 election to a degree that would endanger the President's re-election should he run again. But there are those in touch with public sentiment who believe it is beginning to happen already.

Never in modern times has a president of one party and a Congress of the other been chosen in a presidential election year. The White House and Congress always go together. A Democratic Congress seems about as sure as anything in 1956. The people might conceivably elect a Republican president if the candidate again were Gen. Eisenhower, and a Democratic Congress. The odds would seem much against it.

Fulton Tax Revaluation Figures Expected Soon

Preliminary work on Fulton County's tax revaluation program was completed Monday.

Completion of mapping and reappraisal of values on more than 247,000 pieces of real estate marked the end of more than two years' work by a professional tax reappraisal firm.

Warren T. Hunnicutt, head of the firm, said all records on the project were being turned over to the Joint Board of Tax Assessors which will put the new tax values into effect in 1956.

Totals of the new values fixed are being assembled and the county's new tax digest should be known in a few weeks, Robert F. Pennington, vice chairman of the board, said.

The new figures are based on the 1942 price level or at about 50 per cent of the present market value of real estate. The figures apply to all real property in Fulton and in that section of Atlanta lying in DeKalb County.

Hunnicutt said he will make a final report on the project to the tax assessors in about two weeks.

Education Board Favors 2 High Schools in Greene

By MARJORY SMITH

The State Board of Education acted on a controversial issue of long standing Monday by voting, 7 to 2, in favor of two high schools for Greene County—one in Greensboro, the other in Union Point.

The vote followed reopening of a bitterly-fought case that reached state courts and has political implications.

Under a plan previously approved by the state board and upheld by the Georgia Court of Appeals, a new combined high school was to have been built at Greensboro. Union Point citizens had appealed to Gov. Marvin Griffin last month to urge him to intercede in the school consolidation controversy.

GRIFFIN SUPPORT

John Sammons Bell, administration stalwart and State Democratic Committee chairman, presented Union Point's case in a hearing before the board Monday. Bell told the board that "friends in Union County" had carried Greene County for Griffin.

In another action Monday the board directed that a set of "lunchroom standards" be drawn up requiring Georgia public school teachers to sit with students in school lunchrooms.

Teachers would be charged with seeing that grace was said at table and with instructing students in better table manners.

Board member Henry Blount of Waynesboro first asked that teachers assume such duties by April 1. But the board voted to refer the matter to Miss Eleanor Pryor, director of the Georgia school lunch program, who will set up proposed standards to submit to next board meeting.

MEALTIME PRAYERS

Blount said many children never hear mealtime prayers "unless they hear grace at school."

Board Chairman George Whitman Jr. commented, "Nobody but atheists and agnostics could object to the saying of grace. I also think the teachers could do a lot for students' table manners."

Miss Pryor told the board a majority of school systems in the state already require teachers to sit with students in lunchrooms. Blount commented:

"I'm tired of teachers being parked off somewhere by themselves during lunch, thinking that is a good chance to get away from their pupils. They only teach five hours a day as it is."

Brown High Club Held Tops in DE

The Distributive Education Club of Atlanta's Brown High School was presented the Sears, Roebuck Award as the outstanding DE club in the state Monday night.

The presentation was made at a banquet at the Dinkler Plaza Hotel, highlight of the 11th annual DE conference here.

DAY OF PROSPERITY

Some 250 students and guests heard Dr. Josiah Crudup, president of Brenau College at Gainesville, describe the New South as coming back to a day of prosperity.

Dr. Crudup linked the rise of industry and agriculture in the South to education. Confident that young people in Georgia who are "earning while learning" will make this country go far, he said "we are fortunate to have distributive education in this nation which is based on free enterprise."

He told the DE students that whether they were a good banker, grocer, or wherever they may work, the efforts of their organization "will make life better for the worker and those who come into contact with its operations."

PROJECT WINNER

The Commercial High School club, Savannah, won the Sears award for the club which sponsored the best project during the past year.

Gene Flint of the Macon Vocational School club was awarded the W. T. Grant Co. award for the most outstanding DE student in the state. His prize was a $50 savings bond.

Runners-up were Jack Bruce of O'Keefe High, Earl Garner of Rome and Becky Towill of Augusta. Each received a $25 bond.

Ned Burkhalter of Pepperell High, Lindale, president of the Georgia DE Clubs, was awarded a trip to the national DE convention in Richmond, Va. The trip is given each year to the state president by Colonial Stores.

130 ATTEND

Other Georgia delegates to the convention will be Bruce, Becky Towill, Flint, Garner and Gayle Milton of Brown High, Atlanta.

About 130 delegates from 14 clubs in the state are attending the conference here. Sessions began Sunday night and will last through Tuesday.

P. E. Werner, personnel director of F. W. Woolworth Co., told the students that distributive education helps put a student in the foreground in his employment.

Werner warned, however, that "it is up to the student to make his own opportunities, just as it is for any employe."

William E. Culver, an assistant buyer at Rich's and former member of the DE club at Smith High School, pointed out that it is possible for DE students to keep their jobs after high school and still get a college education by attending night classes.

He urged the students to secure college training whenever possible.

Donald Cottongim of the Fireman's Insurance Co., an alumnus of the Russell High School DE Club, told delegates that even if they have no opportunity to attend college they still "can mount the ladder of success" by means of jobs they hold and contacts they make through the DE program.

Opera Arts Opens Season Creditably

By ALEX JOINER JR.

Playing to its first paying audience, the Atlanta Opera Arts Assn. Monday night launched a three-performance spring season of opera with Verdi's "Rigoletto."

Opening night, with certain qualifications, was on the whole a stimulating experience. The merit in the production outweighed the deficiencies, making it well worth your effort to visit the Woman's Club Auditorium and judge for yourself.

A pretty young soprano, Emily Grigsby, sang the role of Gilda with real musicianship and was warmly applauded for her especially vivid second act, "Caro Nome." Her acting, however, wasn't always up to the standards the association has brought to previous invitational performances.

Don Henderson, on the other hand, acted the title role skillfully enough, but his voice was not always under control. Other roles were capably handled by Joseph McKee, as the duke; Robert Young, as Monterone, and George Ellis, who was a sonorous, sinister Sparafucille.

Ralph Errolle, director of the association, conducted and welded the performance together in commendable fashion. Sets by Ellis are extremely effective and the costumes, from New York, are rich looking.

The house was almost filled.

Rigoletto, with a different cast, will be repeated at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday. The second opera of the season, Puccini's "La Boheme," will be offered in one performance at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Gas Parley Here Discusses Changes If Rate Rise Comes

Representatives of distributing firms which buy gas from the Southern Natural Gas Co., Tuesday discussed here technical details of changes to be made if the Federal Power Commission grants a rate increase.

Southern Natural, with headquarters in Birmingham, Ala., has filed a petition with the commission for increased rates effective April 1.

As a result, the Atlanta Gas Light Co. has asked the Georgia Public Service Commission for permission to pass on to its customers any rate incerase it has to pay Southern Natural.

The proposed rate boost would cost Atlanta Gas Light an estimated $3,647,000, which could mean a 15 per cent increase to the Atlanta firm's customers.

Knowles Davis, chief engineer for the Georgia Public Service Commission, said the meeting here Tuesday was for the purpose of "formulating suggested changes in terms and conditions of the company's (Southern Natural) tariff now before the Federal Commission."

No decision was announced. A spokesman said the tariff changes were highly technical and did not concern rates. The meeting was "an attempt to reach agreement on an approach to the problem," he said.

Meanwhile, in Washington the FPC suspended a $1,070,668 annual increase in rates proposed by the Olin Gas Transmission Co. of Monroe, La., one of Southern Natural's suppliers.

Cornelius Vandenberg, a Southern Natural official, said in Birmingham, however, that the FPC action in the Olin case would have no bearing on the rate increase already requested by his company.

Atlanta Police Study Evacuation Of School Pupils

Two top officials of the Atlanta Police Department are in Mobile to observe the evacuation of school children under a simulated bomb attack, Police Chief Herbert Jenkins said Monday.

The evacuation is scheduled for Tuesday.

Jenkins said Supt. J. T. Brown, head of the uniform division, and T. J. Sikes, chief of traffic, were instructed to note particularly the part played by police in the removal of children from the danger zone. Both are scheduled to report back here Wednesday.

Spring Fever: Even Pittsburgh Talks About a Pennant

Furman BISHER

Sports Editor

(Sports Editor Furman Bisher is on his annual tour of major league baseball camps in Florida. This is the fifth in a series of preview features on the 13 teams.)

FT MYERS, Fla., March 14—A columnist visiting the home team dugout the other day applied a hotfoot to Fred Haney's vanity. "You might finish ahead of the Cubs," he said to the little manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, with a detectable degree of generosity.

Haney coiled and struck, first with some widely used terms of reproach, and then with confidence uncommon in a team that appears to have won permanent possession of last place in the National League.

Bisher

"What'ell you talking about?" he said. "We could win the pennant. The Giants come up from the second division and win it last year. Milwaukee gets any kind of pitching out of Buhl and Nichols the first part of last season and they win it. Anybody can win it. This is a tough league. Maybe we're in the wrong league."

An inquiring reporter previously had asked one of the Pirates about Chuck Garmon, the pitcher from Atlanta. "This is the third team," the player said. 'He's on the second team. They played the first team this morning."

This, too, represents remarkable advancement in Pittsburgh. It was generally agreed last season that the Pirates weren't putting a first team on the field. Now, three teams.

"I'll explain that," Haney said. "We've divided our squad into three teams. When one team is playing an exhibition game, the other two teams play each other. They take turns playing the exhibitions. That way everybody gets to play every day. That's Mr. Rickey's idea."

The Pirates as a whole are Branch Rickey's idea. They represent, as they stand now, his first complete failure as a major league genius. In St. Louis he produced pennants. In Brooklyn he produced pennants. In Pittsburgh he has produced one seventh and three eighth-place finishes in a row. This is the last year of his Five-Year Plan. Only by applying the wildest optimism can any spectacular improvement be seen. Haney is the man with the optimism.

The new balance wheel of the Pirates is Dick Groat, the Duke basketball all-America returned from the Army. Groat, in short, has looked great. Some more severe critics say there are two big leaguers in Pittsburgh, Groat at shortstop and holdout Frank Thomas in the outfield.

Groat gives good coverage at short, has a good arm and average speed. He doesn't hit for distance, but with consistency. In '52, his first and only season as a rookie off the Duke campus, he hit .286 and led the team. Pirate improvement begins first with Groat.

Haney is proud of his pitching. "On potential," he said, "that's our strongest department. Ronnie Kline, that kid back from the Army, ought to help us a lot. We got Dick Littlefield, Max Surkont, Roger Bowman, Bob Friend, Vern Law and Lino Dinoso."

—Travel-Worn, But the Chief

Littlefield, travel-worn in the American League, became the chief of the Pirate staff with his 10-11 record last season. Bowman, many times a Giant failure, won 22 at Hollywood. Dinoso is a left-handed Mexican who had a good season at Hollywood, but isn't listed on the roster. Friend and Law both have vast potential, but Law at this writing is somewhere in Idaho on a holdout stand.

"Of course we've got to get some runs for anybody to win. Last year we left over 1,200 men on base. That's an average of about eight a game. We got about as many hits as anybody, but we had to get four hits to score a run. We were beating ourselves. That's what you get with inexperience."

Down here, they go for Gene Freese, the New Orleans all-star, at second. He and Groat make a great pair. Curt Roberts is magic in the field, but the little Negro can't hit. They're inspecting Reno DeBenedetti, .329 at Denver; Gair Allie, who's losing shortstop to Groat, and George Freese at third. If either wins the confidence of the command, Sid Gordon can go to the outfield.

"We've got to have Sid's bat in the lineup," Haney said.

Gordon struck only 12 home runs a year ago, one of his lowest major league productions. This is the kind of power that Haney considers vital. A quick inspection of such infielder averages as Allie (.191), Roberts (.232), Vic Janowicz (.151) and Bob Skinner (.246) and you get an idea how valuable is a 12-homer man by comparison.

Whenever failure sets in in the infield, Dick Cole steps in. "He's the most valuable man on the team," Haney explained, "because he can play any position, gives you a good job every day and he's no setup with the bat."

Cole is a tall fellow who looks not unlike Earl Torgeson in his spectacles. He hit .270 as he toured all points of the Pittsburgh infield last year. (Eventually, it seems, he'll land at third and give the Pirates their best infield since Rickey came in with Skinner, Gene Freese, Groat and himself.) Skinner is a big impressive boy who was rushed out of Class D with 127 games of minor league experience to play first in '54.

—Rushed Too Fast, Some Fail

The outfield is a jigsaw puzzle. Thomas has hit 53 homers in two seasons as the successor to Ralph Kiner. He's the star of the team, if he ever shows. They say he's bickering with Branch Rickey Jr. about a $20,000 salary, and The Twig is unrenowned for player relationships. Haney speaks of Gordon in the outfield, but the old pro is 37 years old, under-armed and painfully slow. It's amazing that a player could have stayed in the majors as long as he has with his feet of anvils. The outfield, though, is by all measures a gamble.

Haney speaks well of Tom Saffell, once a Cracker.

"They rushed him too fast. He's a great fielder and now he's got confidence in himself to make the right play at the right time."

Earl Smith can run and throw, and at Phoenix last season convinced 195 runs to score. Jerry Lynch was a drafted sensation last March. This year he has been scratched. Too tense, overwrought. He'll go to the minors. Fact is, some men of opinion wonder if this wouldn't be an excellent idea for all the Pirates, except Groat and Thomas.

Niagara Falls to Bearcats

Duquesne Cops Dull NIT Test

NEW YORK, March 14 (AP)—Frank Nimmo's field goal and Bill Lammert's free throw in the second overtime period gave Cincinnati an 85-83 victory over Niagara tonight and the right to meet top-seeded Duquesne in the semifinal round of the National Invitation Tournament. Duquesne, led by Dick Ricketts and Si Green, outmaneuvered Louisville, 74-66, in an unexciting opener of the double-header at Madison Square Garden.

Tonight's winners will meet in one of Thursday's semifinal games. The other semifinal bracket will be filled by winners of tomorrow's Dayton-St. Louis and Holy Cross-St. Francis (Pa.) games.

Niagara, looking like the best team in the tournament for the first half, lost its advantage in the second and finished the regular playing time with the score tied, 78-78.

The first overtime period ended with an 82-82 score.

Playing a cautious, deliberate game that had half-empty Madison Square Garden ringing with boos, the Dukes wrapped up the game during a five-minute stretch in the second half when Louisville's tall Johnny Prudhoe was on the bench.

Atkins Jolts Atlanta With Two Homers

Crackers Lose To Toledo, 5-4

By JESSE OUTLAR
Constitution Sports Writer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 14. Atlanta's hopes of obtaining Ralph Atkins were jolted Monday afternoon as three former Southern Leaguers belted four homers and lifted Toledo to a 5-4 victory over the Crackers in a game witnessed by more players than fans.

Atkins, the man the Crackers would like to plant on first base, launched his bid for the Sox job by poling a pair of homers. Ex-Crackers Bob Thorpe and Earl Hersh joined in the fun by clubbing rookie Dick Roberson for round-trippers in the eighth.

Those two solo socks provided the tying and winning runs and evened the exhibition quarrel, 1-1. Bill Reynolds brought the Crackers from behind with a three-run victory homer Sunday.

Atkins, who holds the Southern total homer record of 129, started the long-ball spree when he drove a Bob Hines serve some 335 feet in the second. His second shot was a mammoth 400-footer over the right-center sector in the sixth, the lone hit yielded by lefty Bill George in three rounds.

Toledo Manager George Selkirk probably will keep Atkins, who was drafted from Little Rock. However, Cracker Manager George McQuinn won't feel too bad about it, for flawless fielder Frank Torre will still be available.

For the second day in a row, the club with the most hits got the least runs. The Crackers struck ex-Cracker Carleton Willey and rookies Dick Carmichael and Ray Ripplemeyer for nine safeties. Toledo garnered only six off Hines, George and Roberson. However, the Crackers stranded a dozen men compared to four for the Sox.

George, usually a slow starter, was the most impressive Cracker hurler, retiring nine of the 10 men he faced.

Hines, a 200-pound right-hander, was plucked for two runs in the second, but fired blanks in his other two heats.

Atkins' first homer and a bases-loaded walk to Jack Daniels gave Toledo a 2-1 edge in the second. The Crackers rang up a run in the top half when Bobby Willis singled behind Bill Casey's double. Atkins then smashed his second homer in the sixth.

Meanwhile Carmichael, a lefty up from Jacksonville, blanked the Crackers for the middle three innings, before they pounced on Ripplemeyer to produce a 3-3 snarl in the seventh.

Little Don Damiano delivered two runs via a sharp 3-2 single through the middle, after three passes had jammed the bags. Ray Reed's throwing error on Mike Krsnich's roller to short and subsequent singles by Reynolds and Jimmy Smith put the Crackers out front, 4-3, in the eighth.

But the gopher hit Roberson in the home half as Thorpe and Hersh unloaded their game-deciding homers.

Right-hander Ripplemeyer picked up the winning chip, his 14th in a row. He won 13 straight in winding up a 16-5 season at Evansville last year.

Matt Peoplis, the classy lefty who had a 15-5 record at Quebec, will start Tuesday's game for the Crackers. He'll be followed by Bob Thomas and Don Stoker. Dick Grabowski and Earl Greene will toss for Toledo.

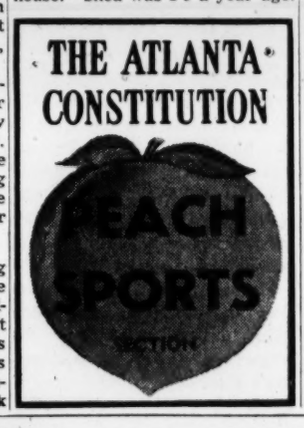
Shades of 1954: Shantz Ailing Arm Frets A's

Condensed From Wire Reports

The Kansas City Athletics are apprehensive again over the left arm of little Bobby Shantz, which grew sore and stiff Sunday at their West Palm Beach, Fla., training camp.

Arm trouble made Shantz virtually useless last year, but trainer Jim Ewell doesn't think the new trouble is a recurrence of the old. "Most pitchers who have sore arms early in spring training are usually bothered in the same spot on the underside of their arms," Ewell said.

JIM PENDLETON's .555 spring batting average makes him the leading candidate for a Milwaukee outfield post to be left vacant when Henry Aaron leaves for the Army. . . . Three hitless innings against the Athletics Sunday made Washington's Frank (Spec) Shea say be thought he was "on the way out of the doghouse." Shea was 2-9 a year ago.



NATIONAL BASEBALL WEEK begins Saturday, and minor league President George Trautman, who originated the idea, proclaims "We've never seen anything like the cooperation this movement is receiving." . . . Attendance, park size and trade area population will likely decide what city gets a vacant American League franchise, should one bob up. That was the upshot of the league realignment committee's talks at Tampa Monday.

THE $27,500 TYPED on his latest contract doesn't look big enough to Cleveland's last holdout, Bobby Avila. He figures his .341, which last year led the AL in batting, put him in line for a raise to $32,000. Avila, whose '54 salary was $18,000, left Tucson by air for Mexico, nixing the newest Tribe offer after four conferences with Cleveland general manager Hank Greenberg.

JOEY GIARDELLO AWAITS THE BELL
Middleweight Contender Before Assault Trial

Giardello Trial Opens; Boxer Pleads Innocent

PHILADELPHIA, March 14 (AP)—A gasoline service station attendant testified today that boxer Joey Giardello hit him with a crutch and several companions of the boxer kicked and beat him last Oct. 29.

The 24-year-old South Philadelphian, rated No. 1 contender to middleweight champion Carl (Bobo) Olson, went on trial today on charges of riot and assault.

Judge Edward P. Little of Susquehanna County is presiding over a jury of seven women and five men selected to hear the trial, stemming from a disturbance at a South Philadelphia gas station.

Howard Short, 31, an attendant at the station, was the commonwealth's first witness.

Short testified he was attacked by several men when the driver of one automobile, whom he identified as Giardello, took exception to the manner in which he stared at the driver of a second car who had called him an objectionable name.

Short said he started to walk away when one of the men got out of a car and started to punch him. He identified him as Joseph Bonadies, 24.

Next, he said, several others started after him. He said he started to run away, but fell to the ground. They started to kick and beat him, short continued, and Giardello struck him with the crutch.

At the time of the alleged assault Giardello was recovering from injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

The injuries forced postponement of a scheduled title fight with Olson.

Giardello, whose real name is Carmine Tilelli, pleaded innocent to the charges at the start of the trial. Three co-defendants, Bonadies, Victory Mariana, 24, and Pasquale Concilio, 22, pleaded guilty to charges of rioting. Bonadies and Mariani also pleaded guilty to charges of assault and battery. Concilio denied this charge.

VISITING WOOTEN POINTS TO HIS CHOICE
Cracker Pilot George McQuinn (R) May Give Up Prospect

Wooten Back in Camp, Just Scouting for Talent

Reports Petty Still Unsigned; Hartsfield Spiked in Game

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 14—Things looked normal in the Cracker camp Monday after Junior Wooten checked in.

However, Wooten isn't here to start his fifth term as a Cracker. He's searching for talent for his Greenville club of the Tri-State League. Manager Wooten reports that Vern Petty hasn't signed yet, but he expects his former Atlanta teammate to play for Greenville.

Second baseman Poochie Hartsfield, spiked in a play at first base in Sunday's game, hopes to get back in action Thursday. He watched Monday's game from the stands. . . . Cracker owner Earl Mann and Toledo General Manager Red Smith make no secret of the fact they're peeved over Jacksonville's booking the Washington-Cincinnati game here Wednesday. Toledo and Atlanta were slated to dedicate the new park before the major leaguers moved in.

Crackers were involved in a zany eighth inning in Monday's game. They had two hits and one man lived on an error, yet they scored only one run, had no runners stranded. The reason: Bill George was thrown out at the plate, and Jimmy Smith was picked off first. . . . Atlanta employed 20 players in the game, Toledo used 15. . . . Fundamentals were stressed in a workout before the game. —OUTLAR.

Garcia Stops Brooks in 4th

BROOKLYN, March 14 (AP)—Rudy Garcia, a crouching, probing little puncher from Los Angeles, stopped Nate Brooks of Cleveland in 2:31 of the fourth round of their scheduled 10-round fight at Eastern Parkway Arena tonight when the former Olympic bantamweight champion went down for the third time in the round. Garcia weighed 126¾, Brooks 125.

Garcia stalked his prey from the opening bell of the first round and Brooks, a 1952 Olympic champion in Helsinki, could get hardly a blow in.

Savage Decisioned

NEW YORK, March 14 (AP)—Sammy Walker, Springfield, Mass., scrapper, survived two knockdowns to come on and grab a 10-round split decision over powerful Milo Savage, veteran from Salt Lake City, in a rough scrap at St. Nicholas Arena tonight. Walker fought at 156, Savage weighed 160.

The Eagles trounced Ft. McPherson, 75-56, Monday night in the first round of the Ft. McPherson Invitational Basketball tournament. Dick Lenholt and Howie Snead had 25 and 22 points for the winners. Jim Graham scored 16 for the losers.

The tournament resumes action at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday when College Park and the Eagles collide at Ft. McPherson's gym.

Stanley Leads South Park Win

Jimmy Stanley-led South Park blasted Gordon Foods, 80-29, in the opening round of the Red Shield Invitational boys' basketball tournament Monday night. Stanley sacked 25 points while John Carson's 10 topped the losers.

Southwest DeKalb followed Freddie Richardson's 23-point shooting to a 71-41 victory over Atlanta Radio and Television School.

Compromise Grid TV Plan Out, and Big Ten Approves

Some Regional Games Allowed

KANSAS CITY, March 70 (AP)—A "compromise" 1955 college football television plan of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. today cleared its biggest hurdle when the Big Ten extended its approval.

Some two weeks overdue, the plan was mailed to members Saturday and released to the press today a matter of hours before the Big Ten accepted the program which calls for eight national telecasts and five dates for telecasting within each of seven NCAA districts.

The Big Ten comprises only a tiny numerical share of the 425 members who must vote on the plan before midnight, March 21, but its approval was a big relief to NCAA officials.

While a two-thirds vote necessary for approval is considered automatic, there were strong rumors the Big Ten, followed by the Pacific Coast Conference, might bolt the NCAA on the TV issue.

To appease the Big Ten and PCC, this year's plan differs considerably from the 1954 program of a 13-week series of national "game of the week" showing. Both conferences had bellowed loudly for regional TV.

Another noteworthy concession to the two dissatisfied major conferences is the fact that a school may appear on one national and one regional date, or two regional dates if the national appearance is relinquished.

Last year, a school could appear only once on the 13-game national program.

The national program for eight Saturdays—Sept. 12, Oct.1, Nov. 24 (Thanksgiving Day), Nov. 26, and Dec. 3, plus three Saturdays between Sept. 17 and Nov. 22—will be administered by the NCAA TV committee. Regional TV games must be sold by participating schools.

Additional TV appearances for a particular school can develop under these provisions of the 1955 plan:

1. Sell-out games may be telecast in the home TV areas of the home and visiting teams (also the game's area if played off-campus).

2. A team playing more than 400 miles from home may telecast back to its "home TV market area," barring conflict with other games in the area.

Two Leap 26 Feet In Games

U.S. Sweeps Top Honors

MEXICO CITY, March 14 (AP)—Two U.S. soldiers leaped more than 26 feet in the broad jump and their teammates won three other track and field championships today as the United States made a near sweep of honors in the Pan-American games.

Roselyn Range, Army private from Los Angeles, won the broad jump with a mighty leap of 26 feet 4⅛ inches—one of the greatest in track history—and he was closely pressed by John Bennett, former Milwaukee University star, with 26-3¾.

Only the great Jesse Owens, star of the 1936 Olympic games, and Willie Steele have done better than Range. Owens' leap of 26 feet 8¼ inches, made at Ann Arbor, Mich., May 25, 1935, still stands as the world record. Only six men—before today—ever bettered 26 feet.

A crowd of 25,000 saw the North Americans win four of the five track championships contested and boost its unofficial score to 115 points compared with 37½ for Argentina, its chief rival.

In a star-spangled performance U.S. performers also came through with these performances:

1. Josh Culbreath won the 400-meter hurdles in 51.5 seconds, just 1.1 seconds off the listed world mark held by Russia's Yuri Lituyev and 7.9 seconds better than the Pan-American record set by Colombia's Jaime Aparaicio in 1951.

2. Parry O'Brien, ex-Southern star and world record holder, led a 1-2-3 North American sweep in the shot put with a toss of 57 feet, 3½ inches, also a games' mark. Fortune Gordiens (53-5) of Los Angeles and Martin Engel (47-10) of New York, followed.

3. Rod Richards, former UCLA sprinter, now an Army lieutenant, won the 100-meter dash in 10.3 seconds, tying the games' record. Mike Agostini, Fresno State student who runs for Trinidad, was second and Willie Williams of Illinois, third.

Culbreath, Morgan State speedster, collapsed after winning the 400-meter hurdles.

He called it "the most horrible race I ever ran" and said: "I'll never run in this altitude again." It took him an hour to recover from the race.

MA AND PA STRIBLING VIEW TODAY'S RING WITH SHRUGS

IN 1931, THE STRIBLINGS WERE FIVE STRONG AND HAPPY
(L-R) W. L. III, the Late Young Stribling, His Wife With W. L. Sr. and Mother

(This is the second of a two-part series on the life today of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stribling, parents of Georgia's most famous fighter, the late Young Stribling.)

By LUTHER EVANS
Special to The Constitution

MIAMI, March 14—Although Mr. and Mrs. William Lawrence Stribling, parents of Georgia's late heavyweight contender, are devoting their lives to church work, they've not forgotten the fight game.

They seldom see any fights or watch run-of-the-mill matches on television, but their interest has never flagged.

"What worries me when I do watch a fight on TV," said Pa, "is the way they fight. I can see dozens of openings that are passed up."

Ma, hovering nearby while doing her house work, broke in and with positive tones.

"You know what the big thing wrong with the business today is . . . they don't teach fighters to use their left hands."

"And they don't train like they should," added Pa. "They believe in too much beer and night life. They're not hungry, like fighters used to be."

Again the floor belonged to Ma, who used to make all her late son's trunks; cook his training camp meals and attach notes of luck inside his trunks before each fight.

"Why the preliminaries in W. L.'s day were better than most main go's today!"

Pa labels Rocky Marciano "a good fighter" and can't see anybody around capable of licking him, but adds, "Valdes (Nino) should give him a pretty good fight. It would look like a fight anyway."

He's not ready to rate Rocky with "great" champions, like Jeffries or Corbett, and certainly not with Dempsey, who "was in a class by himself."

Talk got around to Young Stribling's bout in Miami on Feb. 27, 1929, with Jack Sharkey, which drew $406,000—biggest gate in Florida ring history.

"Sharkey didn't any more beat W. L.," insisted Ma, "than if you and I had fought in our back yard this afternoon."

"Well, it was pretty close, Ma," said Pa, "but it actually would have been charitable to Sharkey to have given him a draw."

Ma wasn't buying any. "You know as well as I do that somebody got to somebody before that one. And you know who. W. L. didn't have a chance to win."

Pa's keenest disappointment in the fistic business came on July 3, 1931, when Max Schmeling repelled W.L.'s title bid with a 15th-round knockout.

"The trouble was that W. L. trained too hard. They insisted that he work for a long time at Jasper Lake, near Cleveland. But our boy didn't need to . . . he always was in shape. . . . and he went stale, I think."

Pa and Ma celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Feb. 14, 1954, by "getting married for the second time."

"Pa was only 17 and I was just 16 when we ran away and were married the first time," said Ma. "I didn't even have a wedding dress. So we repeated our vows.

"This time I had a wedding dress."

British Jaguar Sebring's 'Provisional' Winner

SEBRING, Fla., March 14 (AP)—Briggs Cunningham's British Jaguar has been declared provisional winner of the 12-hour Florida International Grand Prix automobile race, but it will be at least two weeks before the results are known for sure.

Alec Ullman, chief race steward, announced that the American Automobile Assn.'s contest board will meet in New York, March 28, to try to unravel the confusion resulting from yesterday's endurance race.

Luigi Chinetti, a representative of the Ferrari factory in Italy, has filed an official protest, contending the second-place Ferrari owned by Allen Guiberson of Dallas, Tex., was the actual winner.

Chinetti and Guiberson both say the Ferrari came in first, and the timers erred in giving the Jaguar the victory.

The confusion over the finish of the race was confounded by the public address system which announced from beside the official scorer's booth that the Italian Ferrari had taken the lead from the Jaguar and had widened the gap to three minutes.

When the Ferrari's driving crew of Carroll Shelby of Dallas and Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., came up for the official ceremony, they learned officials had declared the Jaguar the official winner.

Timer Joe Lane said the Jaguar won by 10 seconds from the Ferrari.

Officials worked through the night on the records and came up today with a provisional standing putting the Jaguar on top. They announced all placings in the top 10 are unofficial.

The matter must go to the International Automobile Federation (FIA) in Paris for approval, before the AAA meeting in New York.

The provisional order of finish for the first 10, with owners listed first, type of car second, names of drivers third and the number of completed 5.2-mile laps:

1. Briggs Cunningham, West Palm Beach, Fla.—Jaguar D—Mike Hawthorne, London, and Phil Walters, West Palm Beach, Fla.—183 laps.
2. Allen Guiberson, Dallas, Texas—Ferrari—Carroll Shelby, Dallas, Texas, and Phil Hill, Santa Monica, Calif.—183.
3. Bill Spear, Palm Beach, Fla.—Maserati—Bill Spear and Sherwood Johnson, Fort Worth, Texas—179 laps.
4. Briggs Cunningham and Maserati Co.—Maserati—Gino Valenzano and Cesare Perdisa, Italy, 179.
5. Luigi Chinetti, New York—Ferrari—Piero Taruffi, Italy, and Harry Schell, France, 178 laps.
6. Healey Motor Co., Warwick, England—Austin-Healey—Sterling Moss and Lance McKlin, London—177 laps.
7. Briggs Cunningham—Osca—Bill Lloyd, Green Farms, Conn., and George Huntoon, Palm Beach—169 laps.
8. Briggs Cunningham and Porsche Co.—Porsche—Baron F. H. Von Hanstein and Herbert Linge, Germany—166 laps.
9. Carlos Braniff, Mexico City—Osca—Carlos Braniff, Javier Velasquez and Mario Mercader, Mexico—166 laps.
10. Jack Pry, Washington, D. C.—Jaguar—Charles Wallace and Dick Thompson, Chevy Chase, Md.—165 laps.

Fred Rice Returns To Help Crimsons Help Selves to City Baseball Pennant

Rightie Boosts Roosevelt Hopes

By MICKEY LOGUE

Roosevelt's Crimson Tiders, whose spectacular finish helped Southwest take a City Baseball championship last year, are back in '55 with flag ambitions of their own.

Senior Fred Rice muzzled Fulton with a 3-hitter and relieved Roosevelt past Smith to give the Wolves a shove tournamentward while the Tide was closing '54 with five straight wins. And Rice joins six other returning starters in clearing any clouds shadowing Coach C. W. Ward's baseball picture.

Catcher Jack Bush's graduation left the biggest gap, but Cecil Mitchell, his understudy of three years, is around and quite capable with the mitt. P. D. Hendrix should spell Mitchell some.

"Our hitting and fielding look good and on paper we're better than my first team here which won eight and lost four," reported Roosevelt's head baseball coach of three years. "We will find out how we stand when we catch Fulton in our third game."

Rice, a sinkershooting right-hander who had a 6-3 record last time around, heads a three-man pitching staff. Two of those losses came on errors, says Ward, adding that Rice's blend of speed, curves and control baffles the best stickmen.

Sophomore Johnny Spencer, a left fielder last campaign, represents the second half of Roosevelt's one-two pitching punch. Johnny whips a mean fast ball from this 6-3 vantage point and can poke the long ball when at the opposite end of the firing lane.

Johnny Spencer

Fred Rice

Marvin King will be used as the reliefer of Roosevelt's southpawless mound corps when not cavorting in centerfield. King hovered near .400 last season, and his smooth wrist action has him tabbed as the Tide's top hitter in Ward's book.

Ted Leahy, a power hitter who swatted .400 a year ago and appears destined for the clean-up slot, anchors Roosevelt's infield from his first base position. This senior, who throws lefthanded and swings right, is Ward's nomination for the city's best first sacker.

Grady Newsome brought a .325 batting average into the second base chase, but ex-B teamer Pierce McGhee, another junior, also looks good in keystone territory.

Non-letterman Nealon Perkins is holding down Newsome's old shortstop home.

Returnee James Chivers has yet to convince newcomer Larry Chandler that third base is his private place of business.

Leftfielder Eugene Hall and rightfielder Ed Pendleton join King in forming a veteran fly-snagging combine in the outfield. Rice, Herbert Martin and Bill King, Marvin's brother, should see action here, too.

Shortstop W. F. Nix, second baseman Tommy Lanier and pitcher Tommy Silvey will do their playing with the Bees, but are capable of clocking varsity time.

CATCHERS—Cecil Mitchell, P. D. Hendrix.

Dupas Wins Close Bout

NEW ORLEANS, March 14 (AP)—Ralph Dupas of New Orleans, second ranking contender for the lightweight title, scored a split decision over unranked Kenny Lane of Muskegon, Mich., in a 10-round fight tonight. Dupas weighed 139, Lane 138.

Dupas, 20-year-old high school student, outclassed the willing Lane in the early rounds, but Lane made it a close decision with a late rally.

The decision was surprisingly close since Dupas was a heavy favorite. Judges Francis Kercheval and Eddie (Kid) Wolfe both had Dupas the winner six rounds to three with one even. But Referee Pete Giaruso carded it four for each, two even and named Lane the winner.

Babe's Stamina Back During Augusta Play

Not Too Tired To Practice, Finish Game Zaharias Says

By BERT PRATHER

Babe Zaharias wasn't a bit disappointed over her seventh-place tie finish in the Augusta Women's Titleholders golf championship.

BABE ZAHARIAS
The Fatigue Is Gone

No, the Babe hasn't lost her zest for winning, far from it. But it was in this tournament that she played throughout 72 holes without suffering from fatigue that has plagued her since her remarkable recovery from a serious cancer operation two years ago.

Waiting to tee off in Sunday's final round, the Babe said, "For the first time since my operation, I feel like playing without forcing myself.

"They told me that it would take about two years to get over the operation and get my strength back, and I believe them now. You know, how I used to love to practice? Well, since I started back to playing, I have been so tired that I rarely practice, and you've got to spend plenty of time on that practice tee if you are going to win in this league now.

"I'm feeling so good now that I really have the urge to hit the practice tee. In a few days I'm going up to Chicago and have Wilson (she's a member of the Wilson Sporting Goods Company advisory staff) make me up a new set of slightly lighter clubs.

"I've been using the same weight clubs I played with before the operation and they're to heavy now. I don't have the strength to swing these heavy clubs smoothly. I find myself lunging into the ball. A lighter weight club would be easier for me to control now," she said.

The Titleholders was the Babe's first in three weeks. She withdrew from Sarasota because of a virus attack and did not play in the Jacksonville Open.

She won the Tampa Open and now stands seventh among the money winners this season with $2,505. Patty Berg, who won the Titleholders with a new tournament record score of 291, leads the money list with $4,247.50.

Though the Babe, who has won three Titleholders—1947-50 and 52—had to stand by and watch Berg receive the Frank J. Miller Trophy, emblematic of the championship, she did not go away empty handed.

As a highlight of the presentation ceremonies, the Babe was presented the Glenna Collett Vare Trophy given annually to golfer who compiled the lowest scoring average in approved Ladies' Professional Golfers' Assn. approved tournaments. Babe won it for '54.

Another honor is still in store for Mrs. Zaharias. On June 14 at San Francisco's Olympic Club, site of the 1955 USGA's Open championship, Babe, last year's U.S. Women's Open champ, will team with Ed Furgol, the men's U.S. Open king to set up the magic figures for this year's National Golf Day. Thousands of golfers from throughout the country will shoot against the scores posted by Babe and Ed. This marks the first time that women have been able to compete against the women's champion in this event.

'NOTHING FANCY'

BIRDIE'S WHEELS WHOMP UP WORKHORSE'S HALL OF FAME

By ARTHUR DALEY
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

TAMPA, Fla., March 14—Birdie Tebbetts is something of an overgrown leprechaun. His eyes twinkle mischievously and, although he can be stern with his hired hands, his caustic words are larded with a gentle humor that robs them of their sting. He manages with verve and fire and imagination. The Cincinnati Redlegs believe they have the best young manager in the business. In fact, they're so crazy about him that they tore up his old contract the other day and gave him a new three-year one.

BIRDIE TEBBETTS

"I got to thinking last night," said Birdie (who is always thinking), "that there is something fundamentally wrong about baseball's Hall of Fame.

"I ran into DiMaggio in Toots Shor's. The wheels began to whirr in my mind as soon as I saw him. I walked over and greeted him.

"You big stiff," 'when you got to the point in your career where baseball became as tough for you as it was for most of us all our lives, what did you do? You quit.'

"And that brings me to the point I want to make. I don't begrudge Hall of Fame selection to Joe or to Ty Cobb or to Babe Ruth or any of the great ones.

"But I have a theory that there should be a second Hall of Fame for the workhorses who are the backbone of our game. A guy like Eddie Lopat, for instance. Or, if you insist, me.

"Our second-string or junior Hall of Fame need not be fancy. I'd use unpainted wood and just slap it together without any trimmings. It wouldn't have to be fancy because no one ever would visit it but us, the workhorses."

"Did I ever tell you about Bobby Feller and me?" he asked, never waiting for an answer. "I was catching for Detroit then, and a baseball writer, who had nothing better to do during the winter than study statistics, phoned me.

" 'Do you realize, Birdie,' he began excitedly, "that you are the only regular in the American League whom Bobby Feller has never struck out?'

" 'I know I always hit him pretty well,' I said, 'but I didn't know that. However, please don't make an issue of it. I much prefer to let sleeping dogs be.'

"So this guy phones Rapid Robert and gives him the same information.

" 'Who told you that?' asks Feller.

" 'Tebbetts told me,' the guy says.

" 'Tell him I'll strike him out the next time I face him,' says Feller.

"The season begins and I'm at bat, Feller pitching. He whips over two strikes and I'm ready. I hold the bat so that I only have to move it six inches to reach anything he throws. Oh, brother. I haven't seen that pitch yet. I turned back to Rollie Hemsley, the catcher.

" 'Birdie,' he says, "that was the fastest pitch that ever was thrown anywhere.' I nodded in agreement and walked in front of the plate.

" 'Robert,' I said to Feller, 'from now on, I just wish you'd leave me alone and henceforth pay attention only to the good hitters.' "

Real Giants To Battle In NCAA Semifinals

Three of Nation's Top Five Make Final Round a 'Natural'

KANSAS CITY, March 14 (AP)—If you hand-picked the field for the NCAA basketball championships, you couldn't do much better than the foursome which battles it out for the national crown Friday and Saturday nights.

Three contenders, San Francisco, defending champion La Salle and Iowa, finished among the first five in the regular season Associated Press poll.

Colorado, which meets the No. 1 ranked San Francisco Dons in the Western semifinals Friday night, is the lone contender of dubious distinction, although the 15th-placed Golden Buffaloes are the proud champions of the Big Seven.

Kentucky, rated No. 2 in the AP poll, was bounced out of the Evanston, Ill., regional by Marquette. The Evanston regional was won by fifth-ranked Iowa, which takes on No. 3-rated La Salle in Friday night's Eastern semifinals.

That accounts for all of the "big five" in the AP poll except No. 4 North Carolina State, which this year was ineligible for NCAA play because of a one-year suspension for holding tryouts.

All signs point toward a dramatic championship scrap Saturday night between San Francisco and La Salle with the Explorers from Philadelphia trying to become the third team in the meet's history to win two successive titles. Oklahoma A&M won in 1945 and 1946. Kentucky took the 1948 and 1949 crowns.

Besides a sizzling team scrap, a San Francisco-La Salle showdown would pit the nation's two greatest collegiate performers — 6-10 Bill Russell of the Dons and La Salle's Tom Gola, both all-America stars this season.

However, an upset of La Salle or San Francisco, or even both, Friday night is not an impossibility.

Iowa's Big Ten champion Hawkeyes with a 19-5 record have superb balance and survived in polished manner one of their conference's hottest races in years.

Their chief answer to the talented Gola is a springy, sharpshooting center, Bill Logan, who is surrounded by smooth playmakers all of whom hold their own in scoring.

La Salle will seek an unprecedented ninth straight victory in NCAA tourney play. The Explorers won last year's NCAA title with a 92-76 clouting of Bradley, after progressing with triumphs over Fordham, North Carolina State, Navy and Penn State. This season, La Salle reached Friday night's semifinals by whipping West Virginia, Princeton and Canisius. The Explorers have a 25-4 mark, winning their last 12 games.

San Francisco boasts the best collegiate record in the country, 25-1, and will be striving for its 25th straight victory against Colorado. The Golden Buffaloes, however, can cause trouble if San Francisco's star shooter and playmaker, Jerry Mullen, fails to recover from an ankle injury suffered as the Dons shaded Oregon State, 57-56.

KINGS POINT, N.Y., March 14. (AP)—Hal Fong Yee, a Sacramento, Calif., Chinaman, and William Planey of Ashley, Pa., today were named cocaptains of the 1955-56 U.S. Merchant Marine Academy basketball team.

Kid Refused Cuban Ref By Miami

Condensed From Wire Reports

The Miami Boxing Commission Monday turned down Kid Gavilan's request that a Cuban judge be appointed for his Wednesday night fight with Bobby Dykes at Miami Stadium but eliminated a judge and a referee at the Kid's request.

Kid Gavilan

Gavilan's handlers objected to referee Eddie Coachman and judge Jerry Sherrard as being "too friendly with Dykes."

"I don't know whether either would have worked the fight in the first place, but since you object to them, they will not be appointed," Commission Chairman Warren Weimer said.

NO MORE, THANK YOU

Title Men Say Records Dusty Enough Already

Atlanta's title lawyers, who spend most of their work days thumbing through dusty record books, said in effect Monday they didn't need any more dust, thank you.

A delegation of the lawyers who visited J. W. Simmons, clerk of Fulton Superior Court, claimed their work was being hampered by noise and dust from remodeling work in the records room of the courthouse basement.

A spokesman, Theodore Smith, said additional dust from the construction work was making it almost impossible to work in the room.

"Our work is dirty and dusty at its best," Smith pointed out. He said the Fulton records room is one of the dustiest in the area because of its location below street level.

The added dust also is sifting into records books on which the county spend several tthousand dollars recently for repairs, he pointed out.

Simmons said the group objected mainly to remodeling work running ahead of a previously planned schedule.

Original plans called for removing all title records to other rooms while remodeling was done, Simmons explained. Later, however, plans were altered to allow installation of overhead air-conditioning ducts before the records were moved, he said.

The lawyers endured this.

But when construction workers began tearing out plumbing fixtures in the records room and ripping out large wall sections, the lawyers decided this was too much, Smith indicated.

So they complained to Simmons.

Simmons said he had asked the construction firm handling the project to stay within its schedule.

Battle Hill Haven Will Mark 8th Year

The Battle Hill Haven Auxiliary will hold open house at 2:30 p.m. Sunday to mark the eighth anniversary of the opening of the home for aged and convalescents.

A special feature of the observance will be the unveiling of a portrait of Laurence R. Hamilton, first director of the home located at 1821 W. Anderson Ave., SW.

Mrs. Douglas Wood, auxiliary president, will present the portrait and it will be unveiled by Sandra Plexico of Cartersville.

Pair Indicted In Mansfield BankRobbery

Two escaped Georgia convicts were indicted by a federal grand jury here Monday in the March 2 armed robbery of the Bank of Mansfield.

Named in the true bill returned by the jury were C. H. Bartlett, 22, and Henry Grady Armstrong, 38. They were arrested by the FBI in Chattanooga two days after the robbery.

The two men, who escaped from a prison bus in Telfair County Jan. 29, are charged with taking more than $6,300 in cash and securities from the Mansfield bank.

Bartlett, in addition, is charged with "jeopardizing" the lives of cashier G. B. Davis and Mrs. Dorothy Thomas, a bookkeeper, by pointing a .38-caliber pistol at them.

CHARGES GOP 'POLITICS' IN FANNIN

Hoke Willis Calls Democrat, State Figures To Aid Trial

Hoke Willis of Fannin County, charged with destroying county vote records in last September's Democratic primary, Monday began serving subpoenas on current and former state officials expected to testify in his defense.

The 52-year-old railroad man, who has often run for governor, served former Gov. Herman Talmadge with a subpoena at his law offices. He left one for former Gov. Ellis Arnall with his secretary and headed for the State Capitol with 22 other subpoenas for state and Democratic party officials.

Willis was indicted by a Fannin County grand jury last month on charges of refusing to hand Democratic ballots over to the clerk of court, a Republican, after the primary.

OTHERS NAMED

Named as codefendants with Willis are Stanley Daves, Fannin County Democratic chairman, who accompanied Willis to Atlanta; Clifford Wilson Jr., Ebb Cook and Frank Cole.

Willis said he plans to subpoena at least 300 witnesses before the Fannin Superior Court trial begins April 25.

Willis claims the indictment was politically motivated. "The Republicans have taken over completely," he said after the indictment. "Democratic ballots haven't been turned over to the clerk in 40 years."

Besides the former governors, Willis plans to subpoena Lt. Gov. Ernest Vandiver, Revenue Commisioner T. V. Williams, Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook, Public Service Commissioner Matt L. McWhorter, Secretary of State Ben W. Fortson Jr., Secretary of Labor Ben T. Huiet.

GOVERNOR'S BROTHER

Others include Cheney Griffin, Gov. Marvin Griffin's brother, and administrative aide; George Stewart, secretary of the Democratic Executive Committee; James L. Gillis, former chairman of the State Highway Board; Roy Harris of Augusta; John Sammons Bell, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, and James S. Peters, former chairman of the executive committee.

Whatchamacallit for Ernie

Dear Ernie Rogers: We saw by your column recently that you are a brother in good standing in the Gadget-happy lodge. Which pleased us mightily, especially when we noted that closest to your heart are a trusty shrimp-shucker, a grapefruit sub-divider and a Jack the Ripper can opener, all of which are favorites in Davison's Housewares, too. Ever since we read of your prowess in the field of gadget-magic, we've been casing the store in your behalf; we are disappointed that up to press time we were unable to round up that efficient gadget - to - end - all - gadgets that will dress you top to toe. But we did happen on a handy, dandy whatchamacallit we think will intrigue you. It transforms ordinary slices of store-bought bread into delectable French Waffles. Right in your toaster, too. No flour, no batter, no bother. Just dunk bread in a mixture of egg and milk, lock in French Waffler and pop in toaster. Which makes it a cinch, Ernie, for you to put on a Big Chef act without your close relative by marriage having to lift a little finger. We are sending you a French Waffler today, compliments of Davison's. It will not, unfortunately, tie your shoes or button your shirt. But we trust it will add lustre to your fame as a gadgeteer and put you in even solid-er with your ever lovin' family.

P. S. To other gadget-happy gents: Don't let Ernie be the only culinary King Pin. You may take home a French Waffler today by plunking down a mere 2.98 in Davison's Housewares, Third Floor.

The late Harold Ross, longtime editor of The New Yorker, had something when he said the magazine was for everybody—even "the little old lady from Dubuque." It seems Dixie-ites as well as Dubuque-ites read it: the minute the February 28th issue hit the newsstands, folks pounced on it, avidly read the little squib about Davison's ball-point Quill Pens and grabbed their telephones. Next day, more orders poured in from all over Dixie—and one even from a New Yorker, a bigwheel in an ad agency who wrote:

"Speaking of anachronisms (as the New Yorker just did of your ball-point quill pens) please send me one as a gag for my favorite account executive. Believe it or not, he has a real, genuine antique-filled office on the 52nd floor of this stately, steel and concrete Empire State Building."

Just goes to show the illustrious New Yorker Magazine's pungent prose not only sings but sells. We'd be much obliged if they'd mention our name again sometime.

Need an Ike For Victory, Nixon Says

LOS ANGELES, March 14 (AP)—Vice President Nixon warned Republicans today that without Dwight D. Eisenhower the Republican Party is not now strong enough to elect a president.

It was a blunt political statement made to an audience of 2,500 Southern California Republicans at a luncheon here.

"The Republican Party is not strong enough today to elect a president," the vice president said. "We have to have a man who is strong enough to elect the party. That is why we won in 1952 with such a man—Dwight D. Eisenhower."

Nixon, fresh from a goodwill tour of Latin America that was suggested by the President, pointedly warned his GOP audience against the internal quarrels that have split the party.

He exhorted the record-breaking assemblage jammed into every assembly room of the Ambassador Hotel to go out and work "with redoubled vigor" for the election of a Republican administration "on all levels in 1956."

'This Is Not I' —Stokowski

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 14 (AP)—An interview with Leopold Stokowski got no further than the introduction when the noted conductor objected last night to some information read on the air.

Stokowski

John I. Prosser, vice president of radio station WKAT, was to conduct the interview. Reading from a script prepared by the University of Miami and a studio writer Prosser began:

"Leopold Stokowski was born in 1882 . . ."

"No, no, no," the conductor interposed. "I was born in 1887."

"He was born of a Polish father and Irish mother," continued Prosser.

"That is not true," Stokowski shouted seizing a page of the text. "This is terrible. Where did you get that stuff?"

Prosser calmly terminated the interview and substituted a program of recorded music.

'Witnesses' GetObjector War Status

WASHINGTON, March 14 (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled today that Jehovah's Witnesses may be excused from military service as conscientious objectors even though they would fight a religious war "on orders of Jehovah."

The high court also ruled 7 to 1 that a veteran returning to his old job is entitled to the exact spot on the seniority ladder he would have occupied if he had not donned uniform.

The Jehovah's Witnesses religious sect brings conscientious objector cases to the Supreme Court every term.

Today's 6 to 2 decision, written by Justice Tom C. Clark, reversed the draft evasion conviction of Anthony T. Sicurella of Chicago, a member of the sect. He said he objects to the wars of this world but would be willing to fight in the Battle of Armageddon.

This is the war between the powers of good and evil prophesied in the Bible.

Clark said the court thinks Congress had in mind "real shooting wars" when it provided conscientious objectors status for those having a sincere objection to war in any form.

Justices Stanley F. Reed and Sherman Minton dissented.

In other actions the court:

1. Reversed the jury-tampering convictions of four Denver men—Eugene and Clyde Smaldone, William Calvaresi and Jerry Benallo Jr. The high court ordered them tried before another judge in the interest of justice."

2. Upheld 5 to 3 the constitutionality of the federal gambling tax as it is applied in the District of Columbia. The statute as applied in the states was upheld in 1952.

Segregation Bills Vetoed In Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 14. (AP)—Gov. Frank Clement vetoed two local segregation bills tonight in a message to the Tennessee Senate in which he said they would only "foment racial hatred and disorder where none exists."

The veto action marked the first time Clement has taken a public stand on the controversial issue since the U.S. Supreme Court ruling last May 17 that school segregation is unconstitutional.

The two bills would specifically empower local school boards in two west Tennessee counties to designate schools students must attend. They do not mention the race question.

Clement's veto message pointed to a provision of the Tennessee constitution which say Negroes and whites cannot be taught in the same school.

"This is the basic law of our state," he said. "It remains unchanged and will so remain until the effective date of the Supreme Court's decree. . . .

"Segregation is not a political issue to be misused to the detriment of Tennessee and Tennesseans, but is a significant and far-reaching social issue which demands statesmanlike consideration, prayerful thought and careful legal analysis."

He said the bills would "actually produce trouble for the people of every race, creed and color in our state—regardless of their views."

Parents' Slayer Spills It to Chaplain in Jail

WACO, Texas, March 14—(AP)—An Air Force chaplain and a provost marshal today solved a double slaying in Hayward, Wis., by chance.

Under arrest and charged with the slayings was Pvt. Eugene Salzman, 24, absent without leave from Fort Hood, Tex., since March 2.

Salzman admitted to Capt. A. M. Miny, provost marshall at James Connally Air Force Base, and Earl C. Parker, base chaplain, that he shot and killed his parents, Emil Salzman, 45, and Clara, 39.

'JUST GOT MAD'

Asked why, Salzman said, "I just got mad." He said he had been drinking when he reached his home in Hayward last Thursday.

He said his parents hadn't written in three weeks and hadn't sent him any money. He said he waited for them to return from work, then shot them from ambush.

He was picked up Saturday in a Waco bar. Police turned him over to Air Force authorities.

The provost marshal, Miny, and Chaplain Parker had gone to Salzman's cell after they learned through a Chicago newspaper that a couple by the name of Salzman had been found slain late Friday.

Miny noticed Eugene Salzman's name listed as a survivor.

"BAD NEWS FOR YOU"

"We walked into the cell and I introduced myself and the chaplain," Miny said. "I told Salzman to sit down and said 'We've got some bad news for you.'"

Salzman said, according to Miny, "I figured you would find out."

Miny said he did not say anything for a moment, then said "Find out what?"

The soldier answered, "What happened up there in Wisconsin."

Miny said he suspected something was wrong so he asked Salzman "Why did you do it?"

"I just got mad," Salzman answered.

Car Jumps Curb, 3 Schoolgirls Die

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 14 (AP)—Three girls on their way home from school were killed and two others were injured critically today when an automobile jumped onto a city sidewalk.

The car careened out of control for more than two blocks.

A city traffic engineer estimated the car was traveling 70 miles an hour.

Two of the dead were identified as Lynn Douglas, 11, and Anita Arena, 6. The third was not identified immediately.

Tennessee Sues On Dixon-Yates

WASHINGTON, March 14 (AP)—Tennessee and local interests in three other states today asked the U.S. Court of Appeals to kill the financing plan for the controversial Dixon-Yates power contract.

The financial structure was approved 4 to 1 last month by the Securities and Exchange Commission. But Tennessee said the ruling violated both the Atomic Energy Act and the Holding Company Act and contained 24 legal errors.

Cities and public utility systems in Alabama, Mississippi and Kentucky joined Tennessee in its appeal to the court.

S. Georgia Woman Arrested as Firebug While Foresters Patrol Charred Woods

Weary, smoke-blackened firefighters who have fought multi-million dollar forest fires in south Georgia and north Florida for a week, breathed easier Monday night—but only a little.

All the fires were reported under control late Monday but foresters kept a wary eye on as many of the blazes as men and equipment permit lest a sudden rise in the wind send them off on another rampage.

An estimated 70,000 acres of Florida forest has been destroyed during the past week. Estimates of destruction to valuable south Georgia timber range up to 50,000 acres.

G. W. Lavinder, Waycross area forester, said he suspects arson in some of the nine fires reported in Ware County Monday and has asked for an investigation.

Guyton DeLoach, Georgia forestry director, later said a woman was arrested after a dramatic chase by plane and charged with setting seven fires along a road near Manor.

DeLoach identified her as Mrs. E. M. Parker, about 40, of Waycross.

DeLoach said this is what happened:

A forest ranger spotted a car pulling away from a small fire along the road and got the license number. This was radioed to a plane which followed the car and saw it stop at six other places.

CAR INTERCEPTED

The pilot of the plane then radioed the State Patrol and the car was intercepted near Homerville. Patrolmen quoted Mrs. Parker as saying she stopped by the roadside to warm a can of soup.

Holloway was sentenced to one to three years. Defense attorneys announced they will file for a new trial. Holloway testified Monday he shot Franks in self-defense after Franks charged him while being taken to jail.

Prison Board Says Fund Crisis Cannot Be Put Off

By M. L. ST. JOHN

The State Board of Corrections will ask Gov. Griffin for more funds immediately to ease a financial crisis.

Kelly Burns of Savannah, chairman of the board, declared Monday the state prison system must have $140,000 to finance operations for the remainder of this fiscal year (July 1).

By July 1, the prison system must have additional money to open new highway camps, Burns said.

CROWDED CONDITIONS

The additional operational money and the new road camps are necessary to relieve overcrowded prison conditions, Burns stated.

The Tattnall State Prison now has 700 more prisoners than it should house.

The state currently is operating five road camps which care for 600 prisoners. Burns says he does not expect the governor to make available sufficient emergency funds to open camps for the entire 700 surplus prisoners at Tattnall. However, he said the board does'want to open as many highway camps as it can.

SPECIAL MEETING

The board, at a regular session Monday, announced it will hold a special meeting with the governor when he returns from a Chicago trip.

Department officials blame the state prison crisis on Atlanta and Fulton County. When this area started sending all of its misdemeanor prisoners to the state penitentiary, it log-jammed the state system, officials said.

Last year, Fulton County sent 1,962 misdemeanor cases, mostly those involving drunkeness, to Tattnall. This overcrowded the state prison and ran up the cost of operations, officails pointed out. Usually the short-term prisoner was ready for release by the time he had been processed into the state system.

In another development Monday, Chairman Hugh Carney of the State Parole Board, announced he would ask the State Programs Study Commission to pave the way for creation of a statewide probation system.

Carney said the cost to the state would be only about $15,000 annually. It would be operated through the parole board, and the judicial circuits would pay the proposed 36 probation supervisors.

Carney estimated the prison population would be reduced by 3,000 persons by inauguration of a probation system. This would save the Department of Corrections $500,000 annually, he said. It would save the State Welfare Department $750,000 annually now going to aid dependent children of prisoners, Carney asserted.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT YOUR HEARING LOSS?

ATLANTA (Special), March 13—If your hearing cannot be helped by medical treatment, the next step is the selection of a corrective hearing aid fitting, determined by one who has been trained in this highly specialized field. Usually, overall loudness provided by a cheap hearing aid is not the solution to your problem. Best results can be determined only by thorough examination and complete analysis. Think this over, is it wise to entrust the correction of this delicate vital organ that keeps you in touch with the world . . . with life itself . . . to a store clerk without benefit of training or without proper testing equipment? Why risk buying a cheap hearing aid with only limited help when you can have a Beltone that is individually fitted to your own hearing? You may have your loss of hearing analyzed without cost or obligation by contacting Rubein V. Johnson, Certified Hearing Aid Audiologist, 78 Broad St., N.W., Atlanta 3, Ga. (Telephone CYpress 2464).

Airport Panel Adopts Suggestions of Jury

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Grand jury recommendations to improve administration of the Municipal Airport were adopted Monday night.

The aldermanic board's aviation committee acted at a special session as Sam Brooks, chairman of the grand jury committee making the proposals, looked on.

Every one of the jury's suggestions except one—making Assistant Manager Grady Ridgeway responsible to the committee and aldermen instead of Manager Jack Gray—were adopted. Under committee action, Ridgeway will handle preliminary negotiations for leases, contracts, records, etc., filing his recommendations with Gray, who will refer them to the proper authority.

The committee accepted all other recommendations of the grand jury, including acceptance of high bidders for concessions and other contracts where possible; curbing of negotiated contracts; barring employes of the airport from outside jobs, spot check of concessionaries to see that the city is getting its proper percentage on all sales and making Roy Duggan, airport auditor, responsible to City Comptroller Earl Landers.

Committee members voted to allow Gray to pay $1,170 for rental on a warehouse building he used to store surplus plane parts. The committee agreed that Gray should pay the same rate charged for other warehouse space on the field—31 cents a square foot—bringing the total to $1,170. The manager said he would pay the rental immediately.

The committee also voted to ask that Ridgeway, who ends a six-months probationary period April 1, be designed permanent assistant manager.

City Purchasing

Value of bids opened by the aldermanic board's purchasing committee Monday dropped below $100,000 for the first time since the new year.

Purchasing officials estimated Monday's openings at about $60,000 with the sanitary department leading the list in the value of buying.

Sanitary Engineer Stafford Graydon said $25,000 will be expended for a combination packer, tractor and Dempsey Dumpster lift to speed up garbage collection. Also bought for Graydon's division was the first steam cleaner designed to curb odors in garbage pickup trucks and to keep them looking cleaner and better. A $10,800 paint job for the inside of the incinerator, the first since the facility was completed 15 years ago, also was approved.

Other bids were for fencing and box seats costing $5,000 for Chastain Memorial Park; bleacher seats costing $4,185 for the parks system and approximately $3,000 worth of other parks equipment and supplies; dairy equipment for the City Prison Farm, boots, coats and helmets and a generator for the fire department; tractors and other motor equipment for several divisions.

Ordinance Panel Meet

Ald. R. M. (Bob) Clark, vice chairman of the aldermanic board's ordinance and legislation committee, Monday called a committee session for 2 p.m. next Friday at the City Hall. Clark said he will urge establishment of a four-man special committee to handle Civil Defense matters in the future.

Many Order Met Tickets

Sponsors of the Metropolitan Opera's Atlanta season Monday reported they were "swamped" with orders following Sunday's announcement of the company's 1955 visit here.

They said, however, it looked like they would be able to handle all season subscriptions "and more single admissions than ever before." They estimated some 7,000 single performance tickets will be available under a new distribution plan in which season ticket buyers need purchase tickets to only four of the five performances being offered this season.

The four-day season opens April 27 and will bring to Atlanta "Carmen," "Manon," "Andrea Chenier," "The Barber of Seville," and "Madame Butterfly."

Ticket orders should be addressed to the Atlanta Music Festival Assn. at P. O. Box 331, Northside Station, Atlanta.

Sale of County Timber Voided by Top Ga. Court

The Georgia Supreme Court Monday voided the controversial sale of a 900-acre timber tract by Fulton County to James T. Malcom.

In a unanimous decision the court upheld a Fulton Superior Court jury decision in a case brought by Sol. Gen. Paul Webb.

The chairman of the Fulton commission signed a contract with Malcom on Oct. 4, 1950, selling the land for $30,500. The court pointed out several higher offers were made for the timber, including one for $45,000, which was accompanied by a certified check for that amount.

ALL THE FACTS

"With clear knowledge of all these facts," the court said, "it was a clear breach of duty, and therefore legal fraud, for the commissioners to undertake to sell the timber to Malcom at a price far below that offered by other parties."

Shortly after voting for the contract, the commission considered rescinding it, and the document was not signed until Oct. 10. The Supreme Court had previously ruled for Malcom in action by the commissioners to get out of the contract.

FILED SUIT

After other litigation failed to halt the deal, Webb filed suit as solicitor with Carl Copeland as a citizen and taxpayer. A jury returned a verdict setting aside the contract.

Malcom challenged Webb's right to bring the suit as solicitor and the Supreme Court agreed that it was not within his duties, but said it was not a reversible error.

None of the timber has been cut, except one swath to make way for a state road.

TWO REMAIN

Of the five men on the commission at the time of the sale, only Thomas L. Camp and James H. Aldredge are still members. Both voted against the contract.

Camp said Monday night he was "gratified" by the decision. "I feel the position I took all along has been upheld," he added.

Aldredge said he felt in 1950 that "the timber should have been cruised so the county would know the amount of timber they were selling." He said he didn't think the matter was "handled properly" and said the property should have been advertised and sealed bids accepted in the sale.

Yeggs Baffled; $1,000 Offered For Capture

This crime will pay—but not to the criminal.

Officials of Colonial Stores, Inc., Monday offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of diligent yeggmen who pounded away for hours over the week end in a vain attempt to loot a company safe at the Lakewood and Stewart Ave. Store.

Even if the intruders had succeeded in breaking open the safe, officials said, they would have found nothing of value. Most of Atlanta's larger stores now clean out accumulated cash before the close of business on Saturdays.

Why do stock prices change?

Question submitted by Janet Trosch, Rochester, N. Y., Foreign Service

Basically, the answer is supply and demand. If more people want to buy a certain stock than sell it, the price goes up; if more want to sell than buy, the price goes down. Of course, many factors influence people's decisions to buy and sell. Some of these are news about a company's future growth or dividend prospects, investors' need for cash, optimism or pessimism about business in general, tax laws, and changes in international relations.

Does the Exchange buy and sell stocks?

Question submitted by Robert Guilford, Chicago, Ill., Advertising Representative

No, the Exchange doesn't buy or sell stocks—it is the market place where these transactions are made under strict regulations. Your order to buy or sell is handled by a broker representing you on the Exchange floor. The price is arrived at by open two-way auction bidding. There are no "secret deals." The Exchange rules forbid price manipulations. Prices and sales of listed stocks are sent out promptly over a nation-wide ticker system and are published daily in many newspapers.

I live far from New York—how do I buy and sell stock?

Question submitted by David Kittrell, Atlanta, Ga., Salesman

No matter where you live, you can buy or sell stocks—or bonds—listed on the Exchange usually in a matter of minutes. You simply call on or phone a Member Firm of the Exchange. These firms will be glad to give you facts about securities—the risks as well as the opportunities. But whether you want to invest in stocks or bonds, or just learn more about them, you'll get interested and experienced help at the Member Firm nearest you.

FREE BOOKLET tells you what stocks are, what cash dividends typical stocks have paid, how to buy stocks and about the new Monthly Investment Plan. firm, thus prompting the union prediction of a long strike.

W. A. Smallwood, CWA district director, said, "We regret very much any inconvenience caused by the strike. We hope phone users will understand that there are two sides to every story.

F. M. Malone, Southern Bell vice president, said the major issue holding up agreement as negotiations continued Monday was still the no-strike clause.

COMPANY STAND

Malone declared, "the major issue holding up agreement was the unwillingness of the union to agree to the clause protecting the public against quickie strikes while the pact is in force."

The union said its reports indicated that the telephone strike included approximately 100 per cent of the membership.

But the company claimed that more than half of the workers in the Atlanta area alone were on the job. Officials said 1,420 of 2,236 eligible for union membership were on the job at 5 p.m. Monday.

9-STATE SURVEY

Southern Bell officials said a survey of the nine-state area involved revealed that one-third of all employes eligible for union membership were on the job late Monday.

Company officials said 289 of 503 persons scheduled to work in the Traffic Department (long distance) were on the job late Monday.

Picketing union members said

Meanwhile, 15,000 Louisville & Nashville Railroad and subsidiary company employes left their jobs in a dispute over a union-sponsored insurance policy.

The railroad walkout involved about 550 non-operating workers on the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad. Some 250 operating personnel refused to cross the picket lines set up by strikers Monday morning.

Long Range Study Set For Schools

up is becoming "less and less capable" of adequately financing the schools, the preamble said.

The study, which will begin May 1 and end Dec. 30, will analyze present school operations, project financial needs into the future, study the school board's status in the city government and recommend changes to suit the over-all needs over the next 15 years. It would also suggest means of cooperation between Atlant and neighboring school systems.

MEMBERS OF SURVEY

Named to the council were Harold Hunt, professor of education at Harvard University and former school superintndent in Chicago; Walter Anderson, head of the department of educational administration of New York University; Liles Johns, head of the department of educational finance at University of Florida; John Fisher, Baltimore, Md., school superintendent, and Daniel R. Davies, head of the department of education finance at Columbia University.

Fulton representatives Hoke Smith and Hamilton Lokey were strong in their criticism of the study. Fulton Sen. Everett Millican and Rep. M. W. (Muggsy) Smith declined to comment.

"The schools belong to the taxpayers and not to the educators," Smith said. "The people who pay the taxes have got a right to know what's being done in the schools.

SEES "WHITEWASH"

Lokey predicted "a $15,000 white-wash" of the school administration and said he did not think the taxpayers would except the findings of a committee that did not include Atlanta citizens.

"I wonder if either of our great metropolitan dailies that editorialized against legislative appointment of study commission members will editorialize against the Board of Education appointing a committee to investigate itself," Lokey added.

Democrat Fight Stalls Revelations on Yalta

be jeopardized by publication, the Democrats asserted, they would also be jeopardized by sending 24 copies to the Hill, where they would almost certainly be discussed.

On the other hand, the Democrats observed, if it was all right to allow this many copies to be distributed, it would surely be all right to publish the text on the responsibility of the secretary of state and the President.

GEORGE ASKS DELAY

To emphasize this point Sen. George (D-Ga), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, sent word to Morton not to send the transcripts to him pending discussion of the question in an executive session of the Foreign Relations Committee tomorrow afternoon.

In the event the transcript was sent up anyway, George told the committee staff not to accept it. Other Democratic leaders on the hill supported George.

It can be stated on good authority that what is back of all this maneuvering is the following:

1. The Yalta transcript contains several indiscreet comments about the Germans, and about at least two politically powerful minority groups in the United States.

2. The transcript covers not only the formal sessions at Yalta but various exchanges and toasts by the Big Three, some of them extremely informal and blunt in expressing the anti-German feeling of that last year at World War II.

Knowing about these aspects of the Yalta meeting, some Republican political leaders believe publication of the conversations would embarrass the Democratic party with minority groups in the large U.S. urban centers. Consequently, they have been pressing the administration to release the transcript since the Eisenhower administration took over.

INTERNATIONAL PROBLEMS

However, the administration has international as well as national political problems. Publication of the anti-German and other critical remarks of President Roosevelt at Yalta might weaken Democratic hold on minority groups in the large northern cities, but it would almost certainly alienate public opinion in Germany.

The charge being made by top Democratic officials in private, however, is that the Republicans are trying to have it both ways: To avoid responsibility for publishing documents which might jeopardize U.S. German policy, but to send enough copies to the Hill to assure that the information detrimental to the Democrats would "leak" out.

All this background was known to Democratic leaders in Congress shortly after Suydam told his noon conference that the transcripts were going to the Hill.

DOESN'T WANT CUSTODY

George merely told reporters: "I don't want to take personal custody of the papers. . . . I think it would be much better to make them all public."

George attended a luncheon at the White House today for Premier Robert Gordon Menzies of Australia. While there, both the President and Dulles indicated that they wanted to have a talk with him about something, but in the social confusion they never got around to it.

Nobody had advised George about the Yalta papers being sent up until a reporter told him of Suydam's announcement.

Speaker Sam Rayburn of the House told news correspondents: "You can't give these documents to 40 or 50 people and expect them to remain secret."

Chairman Russell of the Senate Armed Forces Services Committee, Chairman Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee and Chairman Richards of the House Foreign Affairs Committee all took the position that the State Department should "keep the documents or make them public."

When these sentiments were conveyed to the State Department, Suydam later in the evening put out what was described as an "informal" statement. It follows:

"The bound sets of galley proofs of the papers relating to the Malta and Yalta conferences of 1945 were not sent to the Capitol this afternoon. Assistant Secretary of State Morton is informing committee chairmen that, pursuant to congressional authorization and appropriations concerning special conference volumes, work on the Malta and Yalta conference papers has been completed and copies will be made available on a confidential basis to the committees that were named earlier if the committees so desire."

LET'S LOOK AT THE RECORD . . . AND THE FACTS

OUR FRIENDS AND PATRONS, AS WELL AS OUR EMPLOYEES, ARE ENTITLED TO KNOW THE FACTS AND CIRCUMSTANCES LEADING TO THE UNFORTUNATE STRIKE ON THE LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE RAILROAD.

The national officers of ten unions with members in the non-operating employee groups, have called a strike beginning at 6:00 A. M., Monday, March 14, according to press reports, relying on a strike vote taken 18 months ago and long before the L&N complied with the Presidential Emergency Board recommendations, shown hereafter.

According to the public press, the national chairmen of the unions claim that the strike has been called because the Louisville and Nashville Railroad has not accepted the settlement made by other railroads covering the national officers' proposals of May 22, 1953, and as recommended by the Emergency Board appointed by President Eisenhower (hereinafter called the Board).

HERE ARE THE FACTS:

The Board recommended that all employees with 15 years service or more be allowed not less than 3 weeks vacation instead of 2 weeks, with full pay. That recommendation is now in effect and has been accepted by the employees on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, as well as other railroads.

The Board recommended that employees be given seven holidays in each year with full pay, and if an employee is required to work on a holiday, the pay will be 2½ times the regular rate. The recommendation is now in effect and has been accepted by the employees on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, as well as other railroads.

The national officers' proposal for the railroads to pay the cost of health and welfare insurance covering members of employees families was not recommended by the Board because it was impractical and not justified. That conclusion was accepted by the national officers of the unions so far as concerns all railroads.

The national officers proposal for employees to be given more free passes for themselves and their families, not only on the employees' home road but on other railroads as well, was not recommended by the Board because it was impractical and not justified. The conclusion was accepted by the national officers of the unions so far as concerns all railroads. The Louisville and Nashville Railroad has outstanding approximately 30,000 annual passes, giving free transportation to its employees and dependent members of their families, which passes may be used any time during the year on the L&N.

The Board recommended that a health and welfare plan be made available to employees, the cost to be divided equally between the employees and the railroad.

An agreement was reached by the national officers and a number of railroads (not including the L&N) to deduct $3.40 from the monthly pay checks of every non-operating employee, regardless of whether the employee wanted the insurance. A similar amount ($3.40) would be contributed by the railroad, or a total of $6.80 per month for each employee paid into a national fund. A portion, $5.95, is to be paid to an insurance company for employee benefits; the difference to be placed in a national special account, the purpose of which is vague. The validity of that agreement has been challenged by the employees of a number of railroads in both Federal and State courts in various states.

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad has contracted with the New York Life Insurance Company for "health and welfare" insurance for its employees that covers all of the benefits offered by the national policy at a cost of $5.25 per month for each employee who wants the insurance and so states in writing, at a cost to the employee of $1.85 per month. The difference, or $3.40 per month, is paid by the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. Thus, the employee receives the full benefit equal to that of the national policy at less cost to himself. The cost to the Louisville and Nashville Railroad is the same as it would be under the national policy.

The main difference between the two plans (aside from the lower cost to the employee) is that the Louisville and Nashville Railroad plan is voluntary and the employee can take the insurance or leave it as he chooses. This is the feature that evidently provoked the national officers of the unions to issue the strike call. The Board recommendation provided merely that the insurance be made available and there was no recommendation that one-half the cost should be deducted from an employee's pay if he did not want the insurance.

The management of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad has been actuated from the beginning of the controversy with the purpose of protecting the interest of its employees, thousands of whom have made known to the management their opposition to the costly and compulsory national plan. We are now confronted with the puzzling situation of facing a strike under orders of the national officers of the unions of the very employees we want to protect, despite the fact that THE LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE RAILROAD HAS GRANTED ITS EMPLOYEES ALL OF THE BENEFITS RECOMMENDED BY THE EMERGENCY BOARD AND WHICH HAVE BEEN GRANTED BY OTHER RAILROADS TO THEIR EMPLOYEES.

In the face of such strike, the L&N can only assure the public that, with the cooperation of its employees, it will make every effort to continue its important services with a minimum of disruption.

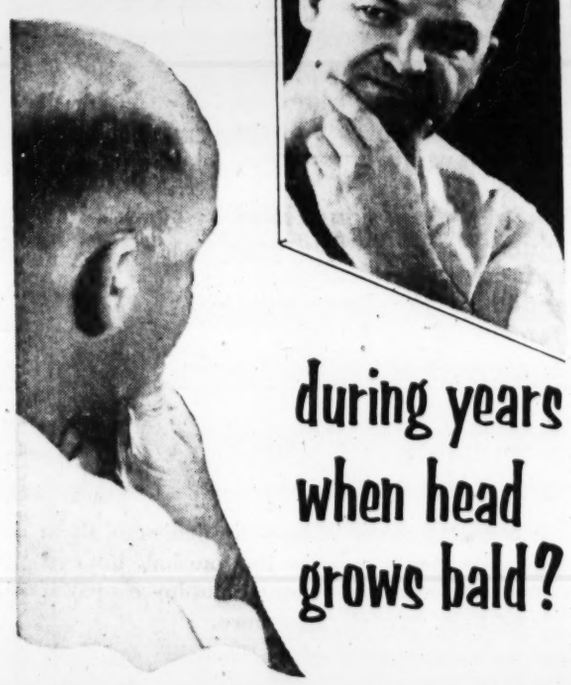
Why does beard grow FASTEST during years when head grows bald?



YOUNG SHAVERS won't know anything about this. But you men 35 to 60 know the score: Your beards grow faster and thicker than ever before.

At the same time, the hair on top of your head grows slower and thinner than ever.

Why is that? There are good reasons, really.

Your beard follicles (hair tubes) point slightly downward. Any foreign material that gets into them quickly drains out. Not so the hair follicles on top of your head. They go straight up. Whatever gets in is hard to get out.

In fact, you probably never do a thorough cleansing job on your scalp. You don't even try very often. So dandruff scales, natural oils, perspiration, and other material seep down into the follicles, plug them up, and choke off growth of new hair.

Hair Should Grow Fastest Too

That's why your hair doesn't grow faster than ever, as your beard does. Actually, science has proved that human hair naturally grows fastest in the years from 35 to 60.

To get your hair to growing as it should, and to keep it growing, you need expert help.

You need Voss HAIR EXPERTS' help.

Take Voss treatment to put your scalp into hair-growing condition. Follow the Voss plan of after-treatment care to make sure your hair lasts a lifetime.

Come in today for a free examination and discussion of your hair problems. No obligation. No appointment needed.

Mothers Follow Arty Children

By MARY DENMARK

It's a fast changing world!

First it was Papa loving mambo.

Now, it's Mama goin' arty.

And for a pretty good reason.

On Saturdays, it seems, a goodly crowd of the small fry descend upon the Atlanta Art Institute for classes in everything from cartooning to fashion design.

BACK TO SCHOOL

Sometimes, they have to commute from some distance, and that often leaves their chauffeur-mamas with nothing to do for two hours while the youngsters busily express their artistic abilities.

Therefore, a group of these women decided that instead of simply killing two perfectly good hours, they'd go back to school.

And now they surround themselves with heaps of brushes and paint jars, mixing and matching colors under direction of Mrs. James Nikas, class instructor.

DELIGHT

"They're working with colors right now," Mrs. Nikas said. "They wanted to know more about color and what they could do with it. However, we're just about through with color and will be going on to other phases of art study."

The women in the class expressed considerable delight in their new art experiences.

Mrs. L. J. Iseman of Roswell who comes to school with her 10-year-old daughter Melanie, and Mrs. L. M. Burrow, who sponsors a youngster in cartooning class, have found "very interesting just what can be done with color."

Mrs. T. L. Peace, whose son Fred was "painting outside" at the time, said that she has dabbled a little in art and added that her reason for taking the class is slightly different from her classmates'.

"I wanted to take this course, and I decided that it wouldn't hurt Fred to come along to art school, too."

Celestine Sibley

50 Years With Her Pen Pal

Maybe it's the spring. Maybe it's the way the sweetgum tree in the backyard seems to be dripping with gold lace. Or the way the violets are blooming down back of the garage. Maybe it's the way the crowds on the street outside seem to have slowed down, moving along at a dreamy pace, pausing to look at the sky over the railroad tracks and the sun glinting on the rails.

Anyhow, I'm writing about love again.

Ordinarily boy-meets-girl is not my favorite theme. But two days straight running I have been engrossed in romance, due, I guess, to the fact that some of our readers who are pretty elderly themselves, also seem to be thinking about love and marriage.

Mrs. Alice B. Luttrell, of Tecumseh, Okla., is getting ready to celebrate her golden wedding anniversary and in a real thoughtful, neighborly gesture she decided to include The Constitution in the festivities.

"I want to tell you a story in connection with your paper that you never knew," she writes.

"I was a Tennessee girl and my husband was formerly of Tennessee but was living in Texas at the time I am telling you about. In your weekly paper of over 50 years ago you had a quarter page or more that you called 'The Cousins Corner' or 'Cousins Page' and it was devoted to letters of young people.

"Anyone who wished to write a letter could do so and it would be published on this page. My grandfather took your paper and one time when I visited them for a week, I was lonesome and as I always read everything I could get hold of, I read this paper through.

"In the 'Cousins Corner' were several letters and some of the 'cousins' asked people to write to them. As I didn't have anything to do I decided I'd write three letters and maybe make some friends away from home. I wrote to two girls and one boy. The boy lived in Texas. I was past 16 at this time. I never heard from either of the girls but I soon had a nice letter from the young man.

"I asked my father if it would be all right to answer his letter and he said he guessed it wouldn't hurt anything. Well, we corresponded for over two years and then my friend decided he would come back to Tennessee and visit his relatives and come to see me.

"We liked each other very much and after five days we were married and on our way to Texas. We have had a very happy life. We think we were meant for each other. On April 6, we will celebrate our golden wedding.

"We have a fine son and three lovely granddaughters. We think we have lived a very useful and prosperous life. We are both retired teachers. I taught 18 years before I retired on account of ill health, in the Tecumseh, Okla., schools, where we now live. I taught 28 years all told.

"I think we never realize the influence we may have on the lives of people about us. I know you never suspected the influence of your paper on our lives and destiny. May you keep on doing good."

This being the spring, Mrs. Luttrell's letter is fine to have. But if any of you 'cousins' met and married a Bluebeard as a result of that page, don't write us until fall, will you?

Hint for Lent

A Dinner-in-a-Dish

A dinner-in-a-dish is actually a menu that plans itself. And it's cut out for those busy days like, perhaps, today.

Tuna casserole is an ideal main dish for a meatless meal. Make it complete with lettuce wedges topped with French dressing and serve with crusty Vienna rolls.

TUNA DINNER-IN-A-DISH

1 tbsp. butter or margarine
1 10-oz. can condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ cup milk
¼ tsp. salt
1 7-oz. can tuna
1 cup cooked peas
1¼ cups shredded rice biscuits

1. Heat oven to 350 degrees. 2. Place butter in baking dish. Set dish in oven to melt butter. 3. Place soup, milk and salt into bowl and mix well. 4. Drain tuna and break into small pieces. 5. Add tuna, peas and ¾ cup rice cereal to soup mixture. Mix well. 6. Remove baking dish from oven and stir remaining half cup cereal into butter, mixing gently until all are coated. Remove from dish. 7. Pour tuna into dish. Spoon buttered cereal around edge. 8. Bake 20 minutes. Serves four.

Casual Play Dress Shortest Length Yet

Following the trend to really short skirts started last fall by the little Bermuda length skirts, we now have an adorable new fashion for summer in the miniature play dress.

This is the shortest little play dress you ever saw—shorter than Bermuda length.

The bodice is a sleeveless shirt type and the skirt is comfortable and flattering to wear with its easy pleats.

Best of all, it has its own little white romper panties as well—to preserve the conventions.

Simple as Pie

Meat Cookery Easy Says the Expert

By JEANNE HIGGINS

"It's easier to broil a beef steak than it is to bake a cake from a mix."

"And it takes less effort to bake a ham than it does to frost that cake," according to Frank Luzny, meat expert from the National Livestock and Meat Board.

Mr. Luzny, in Atlanta for a series of television programs on "The New Look in Meat," will appear on "Today in Georgia," Tuesday through Friday on WSB-TV.

SIMPLE TO COOK

"Meat cookery is actually simple and basic," according to Mr. Luzny who maintains that "Any cut of meat is tender if cooked by the proper method."

"Some cuts are tender. Others are less tender. The less tender ones require moist cookery (braising) and a slower, longer period of cooking."

Since Americans today are eating meat at the rate of 66 million pounds a day, the family budget is at stake every marketing day.

If you dream of serving beef steak or pork roast to the family every day, this can be a practical reality without a groan from the food budget. The secret lies in knowing the cuts and how to cook them.

ROAST OR BRAISE?

There are other steaks than T-bone and porterhouse. When shopping, remember the flank, arm, blade and shoulder cuts. And remember to braise them. Broiling and dry roasting is for the most tender steaks and rib or loin roasts.

Beef roasts are usually good buys. And there are more than a few types. There's the triangle, heel of round, rolled chuck, arm, blade, standing rump, neck, plate and Boston or English pot-roast. Some can be purchased boned and rolled, adding to the variety of cuts available.

As for thrifty pork cuts, there are Boston butts, fresh picnic shoulders, blade and sirloin ends of the loin.

"Both beef and pork are in good supply and prices are rather stable," said Mr. Luzny and will remain so until fall when there should be an abundance of meat on the market.

Put Spring in Your Middle Measurements

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Fashion writers are giving fair warning . . . this spring the middle measurement will have a "taffy-pulled" look. So if you're to swing into spring fashion, better take action . . . NOW.

That wonderful feeling of suppleness can be yours with a stretch, a swing and a side-bend. Make it a rhythm slimming routine, for that takes the resistance out of slimnastics. When one movement flows into another with no jerkiness, it's like dancing. It is always a help to exercise to music . . . and feel the rhythm in the willowy bend of the body and the swings.

Warm up with a stretching routine that reaches the lateral muscles bounding sides of silhouette. Make it a long, smooth stretch through the middle measurement, and let the movement flow into a backward arm circle. Circle right arm upward, pointing right toes slightly sidewards, and pull along the right side, extending the stretch to the limit and holding for a few seconds. Relax as the arm curves around backwards and swings down. Pull again, this time along the left side. Repeat slowly, four to six times, alternating sides.

Now pivot at the waist. With arms arched overhead, pull slim through the middle measurement, bend sidewards, and circle around in front and to the other side and up. Make this a slow, flowing movement, always pulling slim through the middle measurement. Repeat the movement, circling three times in one direction, then three in the other.

To achieve that "taffy-pulled" look, finish with this limbering movement.

Standing with feet wide apart, arc arms overhead, pull snug through the midsection. The movement is to sway, loose and limber, over to the right, and as you sway, let the right knee bend . . . sway away over . . . hold that long stretch. Then swing the trunk up and over to the other side . . . this time bending the left knee. Sway . . . and again hold the stretch. It's the most suppling exercise ever.

Of course, if your weight is more than six pounds above desirable, you'll need to skip all second helpings and leave off those fattening desserts. Just those two changes in your menus will bring slimming returns.

Then by putting tone back in the middle muscles, you'll be all set for spring fashions.

Send LONG, stamped, self-addressed envelope for illustrated exercise leaflets FOR A SLIMMER MIDRIFF and AWAY WITH MIDDLE SPREAD. Address request to Ida Jean Kain, care of this newspaper. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

Stock Slide Posts Loss of $4 Billion

Decline Worst Since 1950 As Last Week's Dip Continues

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK, March 14 (AP)—The stock market staggered today in the heaviest decline in nearly five years.

Not since the United States intervened in the Korean War in 1950 has the market suffered such a selling shock in a single day.

The total estimated loss in the value of all securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange came to around four billion dollars.

Only a handful of stocks posted plus signs.

Brokers said today's action was a continuation of last week's major shakeout, the greatest weekly fall of the past 15 years.

Many brokers felt a rebound was in order today.

Selling began with the opening. Instead of drying up, it seemed to attract more liquidation from all sources. Stop-loss selling accentuated the slide.

Selling mounted until the ticker was as much as five minutes late. That congestion lasted around 40 minutes.

As it cleared, prices improved a bit and maintained a sort of depressed stability.

In the fifth hour selling again broke bounds and prices scurried down again. The tape lagged as much as nine minutes and did not clear for something like an hour.

For the second time prices staged an improvement. The rise from the worst was fairly good but by no means dramatic.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $3.90 at $151.50. The largest single decline last week was $3.10 on Tuesday. Today's drop was the heaviest since June 26, 1950, when the average declined $4.

The indstrial component today was down $5.40, rails were off $3.50, and utilities retreated $1.30.

The market was quiet broad with 1,270 issues traded. Altogether, 1,074 issues declined. Only 88 advanced. There were five new highs and 25 new lows for 1954-55.

Volume mounted to 4,220,000 shares, not a record but one of the larger totals this year. Friday's market accounted for 3,040,000 shares.

Pennsylvania Railroad was the day's most active issue off 1 at 26¼ on 84,100 shares. It was followed by General Dynamics off ⅝ at 56⅞, New York Central off ¾ at 33¼, General Motors off 2⅛ at 90¾, and Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton off 1 at 14⅝.

The bond market was lower. U.S. government issues in the over the counter market were firm.

WILL CHEMICAL STOCKS PERFORM BETTER IN 1955?

One of America's great industries, the chemical group, has been consolidating its enormous post-war expansion. Some chemical stocks should do better than the market in 1955, and under certain circumstances a great deal better. Our March Monthly Letter not only explains why our Research Department believes a better year may be in prospect for the chemicals but also tells which chemical stocks appear best-situated. Major Trade Hubs Record More Gains

By JIM MONTGOMERY

America's economic express continues to barrel along at a record clip.

And Georgia's riding strictly first class.

So far this year, the accelerated trend of the last part of 1954 has shown no signs of slowing down or changing direction.

The seasonal employment decline after Christmas was less than usual.

Retail sales, especially in department stores, are considerably higher than in the first 10 weeks a year ago.

Cash business is good.

And the level of installment buying has never been higher than it is right now.

Bank debits are no exception, either.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta said Tuesday that Georgia debits (checking account withdrawals) ran 8 per cent higher in February than in the same 1954 month.

And that's a good indication of the level of business activity for the state as a whole.

A bank analyst also noted that since more than three-fourths of all business is transacted by check, debits are a pretty reliable measure of total spending.

We can't remember the last time Georgia debits slipped below the year-earlier level.

But the bank, no doubt with tongue in cheek, recalled that last month's gain was the smallest over the corresponding month of a year earlier since last October.

With the exception of Elberton, every major trade center in the state reported a gain in February.

Thus, there is no doubt about the widespread character of Georgia's economic progress.

Macon led with a 24 per cent gain.

Other increases ranged downward from 23 per cent in Gainesville to 5 per cent in Atlanta and 3 per cent in Griffin.

Although Elberton's 7 per cent dip was the only one compared with February, 1954, no Georgia city did as well last month as in January.

But the first two months combined were excellent.

For they indicated that Georgia—as well as other Sixth District states—was off to a running start on what could well turn out to be a new record year.

To Need 9.7 Pct. More Gas

The production and expansion needs of Southeastern industry will require 1,610,300,000 therms of natural gas by 1957, according to the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Assn. This will be 9.7 per cent above 1954 requirements, GAMA said.

Marietta Plant Lauded For Lockheed Record

Robert E. Gross, president of the Lockheed Aircraft Corp., Monday credited the Georgia division with making an important contribution to the company's record 1954 earnings of $22,446,000.

He said the Marietta plant achieved better-than-estimated man-hours in B47 manufacture and a 98 per cent quality record granted by the Air Force.

Robert E. Gross

Now that the first of a quantity order of USAF C130 Hercules turbo-prop cargo transports are starting to roll from the Georgia Division plant, he added, sizable new orders are being negotiated.

Development of the C130 at the Marietta plant, he said, "will set off another major aviation advance in the next few years."

SEES GOOD YEAR

Gross said 1955 would be "one of our most productive years in its contribution to the soundness of our corporation."

He predicted, however, that heavy development expense and temporarily reduced manufacturing would reduce this year's profits.

Lockheed production in 1954 was the highest since World War II in terms of airframe poundage, which Gross estimated at one-sixth of the U.S. total.

LARGE AIRPLANES

He said this gain reflects increased emphasis on building larger and more complex airplanes.

The annual report said Lockheed repaid all bank borrowings in 1954, but has at its disposal a $50 million credit agreement in anticipation of future requirements.

Gross said that in addition to C130 population, the Georgia Division will concentrate on building new B47s and modifying earlier model Stratojets this year.

IT GLOWS

Rotary Told Economy's Health Good

The glowing complexion of the American economy is a sign of good health, not a flush of fever, Ben R. Gordon, executive vice president of Rich's, Inc., said Monday in a talk to the Rotary Club of Atlanta.

The department store executive listed as plus factors in the economic picture the greater buying power inherent in a growing population, the availability and the desirability of new products and the new leisure that has accompanied shorter working hours.

He cited the "magnificent American production concept" making for new products of higher quality at a lower price as contributing to a standard of living that is constantly rising.

The challenge today, Mr. Gordon said, is to solve the problems of distribution. Distributors are working toward a solution, he said, through new ways to study and test markets to take the gamble out of new products.

Grain Rally Falls Short

CHICAGO, March 14 (AP)—Grains closed with fairly sizable losses on the Board of Trade today despite a little late rally.

The market was lower from the start and never got up to Friday's closing prices. Wheat and soybeans suffered most. At the finish wheat had recovered about a cent from the day's bottom.

A Rhyme a Day

"The springtime diet should be lighter since the body does not require the heat-producing foods needed in cold weather."—Health column quote.

The willow trees are turning green . . . and soon the winter will be gone . . . at morning there's a silver sheen . . . of dew that spreads upon the lawn . . . or gathers in the jonquil's cup . . . where singing birds may quench their thirst . . . the hyacinths are shooting up . . . and soon the buds will start to burst.

It's spring again! And now we think . . . of other springs that came and went . . . of tonics that we used to drink . . . but not without an argument . . . for papa used to hold our nose . . . and mama poured it down our throat . . . and our reaction, we suppose, is something that we shouldn't quote.

And verily, it came to pass . . . when springtime brought its leaf and bud . . . we dug the roots of sassafras . . . to make a tea to "thin the blood" . . . by that time all the sides of meat . . . the sweet potatoes and the beans . . . were gone and all we had to eat . . . was just a mess of "early greens" . . . and that was life, down on the farm . . . all through the wintertime, we splurged . . . on food that did us little harm . . . for in the springtime we were purged.

Thrombophlebitis Hits Bedridden

In thrombophlebitis, a clot (thrombus) develops in a vein. The deeper veins of the pelvis and lower limbs are favored and potential candidates are those who must remain in bed because of surgery, childbirth, injury, or an infection like pneumonia. In this respect, thrombophlebitis is a complication that occasionally is more serious than the original ailment.

Most victims tell the same story. The second day after a pelvic operation, a 46-year-old housewife noted soreness in the left leg, most noticeable high in the back of the calf, when the knee was bent. The limb was heavy, cold, and slightly puffy.

The physician administered an anticoagulant drug and the woman kept the leg elevated and applied heat. These procedures relieved discomfort but many months elapsed before swelling subsided.

While skating, a young athlete wrenched his left ankle, which became painful and swollen. When it was time for him to start walking, the entire leg became puffy. He received the same remedies as the housewife and as soon as infection was under control, an elastic bandage was applied to combat edema. The lad made a good recovery and was able to discard the support at the end of six weeks.

In both instances a clot had formed against the wall of the main leg vein. As it grew, it closed the vein and extended up and down the passageway until a large clot existed.

The obstructive material in such clots is a dark red, solid mass of fibrin and blood cells. The plug adheres to the wall of the blood vessel except on the end where a long, flimsy tail waves precariously in the blood stream.

Should the tail break off, it is carried with lightning speed toward the heart and into a lung. This is the most serious aspect.

There are several reasons why thrombi develop. One is prolonged bed rest, which retards the flow of blood and encourages clotting. This is why patients who have been operated upon or delivered of a baby are urged to get out of bed as soon as possible. Early rising has gone a long way toward preventing thrombophlebitis.

Dehydration has the same effect by making the blood more concentrated. In addition, injury and inflammation produce a reaction that causes blood cells and fibrin to cling to the inside of the wall. A small nucleus is enough; within a short time, a spongelike mass is produced as the solid particles of blood adhere to the original clot.

Thrombophlebitis deserves the best of care. One of the most effective remedies is a pressure bandage to keep the limb from swelling. Unless this is done, the tissue spaces may become so distended they never return to normal.

Sign Makers Need $750,000 More

CHICAGO, March 14 (AP)—Residents will be asked in the April 5 election to approve a bond issue for $750,000 to finance expansion of the city sign making shop.

Chicago needs 50,000 signs a year and cleans about 40,000. Limited production facilities have kept sign makers six months behind, officials said.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Spunk Worth More Than Date for Dance

Agnes S., 15, is a high school sophomore.

"Dr. Crane, I understand psychologists do not approve of having high school kids go steady," she began.

"But I live in a small town where there are only 250 students in the entire high school. And in my sophomore class, there are only 30 boys and 46 of us girls.

"So there is a shortage of boys! And I have a chance to go steady with one of them. Besides, he is very popular. If I don't consent to be his steady date, I'll probably have nobody.

"And that would be awful! He's very jealous, too, so I must either do what he says, or be left out in the cold.

"Don't you think there are exceptions to the rule, and wouldn't it be better for me to go steady so I'd be sure of a boy to take me to dances and other school affairs?"

COWARDLY LOVERS

Cowardice is not a good foundation for friendship or marriage.

If fear that you may otherwise be dateless will stampede you into doing what your brain tells you is not the best course of action, then when you start going steady, and your boy friend begins to demand illicit privileges, you'll likely submit.

For you'll be doubly afraid of his jilting you publicly in favor of some other girl with an easy conscience.

Having cowardly consented to his demand that you go steady, the habit of submission will have thus begun, so it will be easier for him to coerce you into illicit affairs.

And soon you may be forced to drop out of high school because of pregnancy.

This is no idle warning. In one small town high school last year the principal told me that 17 of 38 senior girls were pregnant and couldn't ever appear in public at commencement for their diplomas.

GIRLS, TAKE HEED

Spunk is the greatest charm a girl possesses in the eyes of a man.

It isn't pretty legs or a perfect bust or a cute smile, though they may help attract males.

Your greatest charm is your independence of spirit or spunk. And when you lose that, as by letting a youth coerce you into doing wrong, you can soon lose your boy friend though you have the best figure and most shapely legs in the entire high school.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	1 diamond	1 heart	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	6 clubs	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of diamonds.

From associates of mine in Chicago comes word that one of their citizens is a great believer in reincarnation. William Swartchild has silently held to the faith for many years but not long ago he openly expressed the wish that upon his return to this earth in a future incarnation he appear in the form of "South in Goren's column." His wish is mine, and I hope that he will be found at the helm in the vulnerable slam depicted today. I am quite convinced he will fare better than the South who actually lived this hand in his first appearance on this planet.

While the final contract of six clubs is eminently sound, no laurel wreaths are reserved for South. The jump rebid of three clubs, based merely on possession of a sixth club, is not at all justified. It is true that the rebid is not an easy one but if South is not content with the conservative rebid of two clubs he may compromise with a raise to two hearts. After the jump rebid North was determined to settle for no less than six clubs and proceeded to display his wares in an effort to reach a possible grand slam.

The king of diamonds was opened and won with the ace. Declarer extracted trumps and then tried the spade finesse. When this lost, his one remaining chance was to drop a doubleton queen of diamonds. When this failed to come off declarer was down one and a lot of good cards had gone to waste.

When it comes Mr. Swartchild's turn to play the same hand we hope it will turn out to be a gem.

South will win the opening lead of the king of diamonds and immediately ruff the remaining diamond. He will draw two rounds of trumps and then test the hearts. When the ace and king fail to drop the queen, a third round of the suit is played. If East wins this trick then declarer must try the spade finesse. If West wins the trick and has another heart to return, declarer is again left to the spade finesse. But if the hearts have broken and West wins the trick the contest is over, for West must lead either a spade or a diamond. The diamond lead permits declarer to ruff in dummy as he discards a spade from the South hand, and another spade is discarded on dummy's 13th heart.

Air Traveler Menaces Fulton Trio

NEWARK, N.J., March 14—A former Boston policeman who was once decorated for bravery terriorized 30 fellow passengers and crewmen aboard an Eastern Air Line plane Sunday night.

Threatening the passengers and crew with a piece of wood which he said was a gun, the man—with one hand in his coat pocket—declared dramatically:

"Don't anyone move. I've got a gun."

MENACE

The man, who later identified himself as Edward Koen, stood menacingly in the aisle as the Atlanta-to-Newark plane landed at its destination.

Lurching toward stewardess Peggy Goodrich and purser Curtis Ivey near the tail of the ship, he shouted, "Stand where you are!"

(Miss Goodrich resides at 106 East Temple Avenue, College Park, and Ivey in Atlanta.)

After the landing, the man had the pilot, Capt. A. L. Nelson, 209 Rugby Lane, College Park, summoned from the pilot's compartment.

WOODEN GUN

Nelson thought he was joking about the gun, but the purser Ivey shouted, "This is no joke. Call the cops." Nelson ducked back into the compartment and radioed the tower for help.

As police with drawn guns swarmed around the plane, Koen ordered the passengers to leave. Police then boarded the plane and arrested Koen.

Their search revealed a small piece of wood, rather than a gun, in the man's pocket.

Koen, who received the Boston Police Department's Medal of Honor in the recapture of an escaped gunman in 1938, was taken to a Newark hospital for a mental examination.
